President cited for massive abuse of power, cover-up

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Articles of impeachment proposed to the House Judiciary Committee Friday accused President Nixon of direct responsibility for the Watergate burglary and cover-up and a "pattern of massive and persistent abuse of power for political purposes."

A set of four impeachment articles unsigned but apparently drafted by the staff headed by special counsel John Doar would impeach the President "of high crimes and misdemeanors in the conduct of his office" including:

—The Watergate burglary, cover-up, hush money, obstruction of justice, destruction of evidence, allowing of perjury by aides and interference with government agencies for all of which "Richard M. Nixon is personally and directly responsible."

—Abuse of power in the misuse of the Internal Revenue Service and in the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. These were described as "part of a pattern of massive and persistent abuse of power for political purposes."

"The pattern of conduct," the article reads, "has been at the direction of Richard M. Nixon and on his behalf, acting both personally and directly and through his personal agents at the seat of government and their immediate subordinates."

—Contempt of Congress for refusal to comply with the committee's eight subpoenas for 147 taped conversations.

—"Willful tax evasion," for which the article says the President was not prosecuted solely because of his office.

The committee itself has taken no action on the proposed articles but has sifted through evidence and listened to witnesses regarding the accusations.

In a 306-page summary of the evidence, Doar said that Nixon decided shortly after the June 17, 1972, Watergate break-in to cover up White House involvement.

The summary said the 18-minute gap occurred in the tape of a June 20, 1972, conversation with former chief of staff H. R. Haldeman an hour after Haldeman had been briefed on White House and re-election aides' involvement in the break-in.

Doar contended Nixon's subsequent references to "containment" of federal investigations to the original seven burglars and to "cut the losses" implicate the President in the initial cover-up.

"There is clear and convincing evidence that the President took over in late March (1973) the active management of the cover-up, Doar charged.

The four articles are one of five sets of proposed grounds for impeachment before the committee. Four of the sets were drafted by committee members.

The other sets include additional proposed articles of impeachment on charges of bribery in the dairy milk price increase, illegal secret bombing of Cambodia, and the firing of former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Most members said Doar did not specifically recommend impeachment in presenting the evidence

Hearings hit as kangaroo court effort

By PHILIP SHABECOFF
New York Times Service

SAN CLEMENTE — In its harshest attack yet on the House Judiciary Committee, the White House called the committee Friday a "partisan, kangaroo court" and challenged the right of its chief counsel to present articles of impeachment against President Nixon.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, charged Friday that the committee had made "a total shambles out of what should have been a fair proceeding."

TALKING to newsmen outside the President's office in San Clemente, Ziegler accused the chairman of the committee, Rep. Peter J. Rodino Jr., of "falsely presenting a picture of fairness."

Later, at a news briefing, Ziegler charged that the majority counsel, John Doar, along with "radicals and partisans" on the committee, were seeking to force a "prejudgment" of presidential guilt on other members of the committee as well as the rest of the House of Representatives by "presenting a biased and partisan case."

Ziegler's sharpest attacks were reserved for Doar.

Nixon transcript on ITT affair. Page A-6.

"It is appalling and startling," Ziegler said, that "this staff lawyer," appointed by the majority chairman of the committee, should recommend "a course of action on such an important constitutional matter."

He suggested that Doar's role should have been limited to presenting the evidence to the committee in a "fair way." Not only had Doar presented the evidence in a "distorted" way, Ziegler charged, he has also violated constitutional procedures by presenting the articles of impeachment to the committee.

"THERE is no proceeding in our free system where someone who has the key responsibility like Mr. Doar has, that justifies in any way whatsoever the drawing up of impeachment articles before the evidence has been presented, unless it is a kangaroo court, and I would suggest that Mr. Doar may feel he is conducting that kind of proceeding."

Ziegler said that the President would make no direct comment on Friday's presentation of impeachment articles. However, he stated that "I am speaking as the President's spokesman."

The White House released Friday the transcribed excerpt of a presidential tape recording given Thursday to the House committee, of March 22, 1973, which the White House insists exculpates Nixon from charges that he authorized or knew of the payment of "hush money" to the Watergate burglary figures.

Responding to the anger expressed Thursday by some committee members who felt it was improper for the White House lawyer, James D. St. Clair, to release only a small part of the evidence the committee had demanded, Ziegler contended that the committee was not interested in the facts.

"THEY CAME out of the meeting and said 'Oh, please don't give us the facts,'" Ziegler said. Now that the transcript had been given to the committee, he asserted, "the facts are there in black and white," adding that the facts show clearly that the President did not know of or authorize the payment of hush money.

Ford defends judiciary panel

By MICHAEL MORIARTY

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — Disagreeing with White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, Vice President Gerald Ford said Friday he would not describe the House Judiciary Committee as a "kangaroo court."

Ford was asked at a news conference about Ziegler's statement earlier in the day that special counsel John Doar and Committee Chairman Peter Rodino were conducting a kangaroo court.

"RODINO as chairman of that committee has done his utmost to handle it in a fair way," Ford said. "You would certainly not call the manner in which that committee has operated a kangaroo court."

"Of course," the vice president said, "there are some members of that committee that decided on impeachment before they even saw the evidence, but that's understandable."

However, Ford said, "I still don't think there is enough evidence to impeach the President."

Sect pair guilty of son's death

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — A man and wife, members of a Bible-reading fundamentalist religious sect, were convicted of involuntary manslaughter Friday after their 11-year-old diabetic son died when they withheld his insulin and instead put their trust in a faith-healer.

"I'm just glad that I have Jesus Christ to lean on," the victim's father, 35-year-old Lawrence Parker, told reporters after the verdict by a 10-woman, two-man Superior Court jury. The panel had spent over five days deliberating the bizarre case.

PARKER, 35, an electronics technician and former U.S. airman who once believed their son would be healed after a "laying on of hands" by the faith-healer, showed little emotion when the verdict was handed down. Later, his wife, Alice, 28, was crying, but said the jury "did the best they could."

They will appeal the conviction.

The boy, Wesley, died last August after treatment by the faith-healer at the Assembly of God Church in Barstow.

Most jurors were reluctant to talk about the case, but Nancy Sandler of Rialto noted that the panel had pondered the judge's instructions that if a reasonable and prudent person would have acted as the Parkers did, then the defendants should be declared innocent.

THE Parkers indicated during their trial they regretted withholding the insulin, a life-saving substance for diabetics.

The Parkers face one to 10 years in jail on the manslaughter conviction. They also were convicted of child abuse.

Judge J. Steve Williams set Sept. 3 for sentencing. Young Wesley was treated in August of last year by Rev. Daniel L. Padilla of the Latin American branch of the Assembly of God Church and his parents testified they felt the diabetes was "a lie of Satan."

Padilla, one of the witnesses during the 39 days of testimony at the trial, said he never claimed the boy was healed by the "laying on of hands."

A TAPED interview with detectives was played in court and Parker was heard to say:

"My son came out of the kitchen with his insulin injection and a crestfallen look on his face. I saw that, and then I felt the witness of the holy spirit in my heart saying the devil is alive. So I got up and took the insulin from my son and I squirted it into the trash can and I said, 'The devil's a liar. You are healed.'"

The boy died three days later on Aug. 22.

Turkey began invading Cyprus by air and sea today to protect the Mediterranean island's Turkish minority from a militant Greek Cypriot government which seized power in a bloody coup d'etat five days ago.

By doing so, Turkey risked war with Greece and the ire of the United States and other world powers which had been trying to avert an armed conflict over the pivotal island in a week of frantic diplomacy.

UPI correspondent Wilborn Hampton, reporting from the Cypriot capital of Nicosia, said explosions along with rifle and cannon fire were heard in the city. He said the invasion was staged by Turkish seaborne troops on Cyprus' northern coast near the port city of Kyrenia, but that paratroopers landed elsewhere.

Turkish air force planes zoomed over Nicosia and citizens in the capital began moving to protect themselves.

"I can see the Turkish paratroops landing," reported housewife Mrs. Andreas Hadjipapas, a Greek Cypriot living in Nicosia. "I'm taking the children and we are fleeing."

The Turkish Cypriot radio station Bayrak, monitored in the Turkish capital of Ankara, said Turkish troops had landed in Cyprus at 5 a.m. today (7 p.m. PDT Friday) and also reported that fighting had broken out in Nicosia.

The Greek Cypriot radio said Turkish bombers hit police stations and positions occupied by the Cypriot national guard following Monday's coup. The radio said the Greek Cypriots fired back at the planes.

Turkish Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit announced the start of the invasion in Ankara after a series of all-night meetings with the top American troubleshooter dispatched to the area by President Nixon, Undersecretary of State Joseph Sisco.

"The landing and airborne action of our armed forces has started on Cyprus," Ecevit told reporters at his office 20 minutes before the announcement was broadcast over the state-run Turkish national radio.

"We are not going to Cyprus only to bring peace to Turks. We are

But there's more bad news

No recession, Stein argues

By FRANCES LEWINE

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — Despite some bad news from economic statistics, President Nixon's top economic adviser said Friday that the nation is not experiencing a recession — not even a mild one — and that there will be a continued reduction in inflation.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, spoke to news reporters after a 75-minute meeting with Nixon and other economic experts at the Western White House. Stein said the decline in the economy actually came to an end sometime in the first half of this year and "is now rising, but slowly."

Stein attributed a decline in the gross national product — the nation's output of goods and services — in the April-June quarter to a decline in the U.S. assets owned abroad resulting from the take-over of earnings from some U.S. oil companies by their host governments abroad.

The cost of living climbed another 1 per cent in June as the nation's sizzling inflation rate reached midyear with no sign of significant relief.

The Labor Department said Friday the June increase, equivalent to a 12 per cent annual rate, marked the fifth time in the last six months that inflation has been in double-digit figures on an annual basis.

The bleak price report followed Thursday's government announcement that the economy declined in the second quarter at a 1.2 per cent annual rate, the second consecutive quarterly decline.

Economists conventionally define this as a recession. But Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent called it instead an "energy-crisis spasm," saying that the decline in real growth was neither serious enough nor broad enough to be classed as a recession.

Stein spoke at the same time the White House announced that Nixon is accepting his resignation as chairman of the council at the end of August, a request of Stein's that had been delayed three times. He is going to become a professor at the University of Virginia.

Nixon said he was "losing an immensely valued economic adviser."

Stein said that the economic discussion with the President left unchanged the administration's general strategy to maintain a restraint in government spending and in monetary policy and requests for the public, labor and management to show restraint as well.

He said this policy would be sufficient to combat inflation if it is "pursued with sufficient vigor and durability."

He declared that he looked for "a moderate rise in the economy and a slowdown in the rate of

Strike blacks out thousands

United Press International

Thousands of homes in the Los Angeles area were without electricity Friday as striking Department of Water and Power employees refused to restore service interrupted by breakdowns and negotiations recessed without any signs of a settlement.

An estimated 7,000 to 10,000 homes and businesses in Woodland Hills, Studio City, Mission Hills and Sherman Oaks in the San Fernando Valley and other parts of the city suffered blackouts because of equipment failures.

Despite pleas by DWP General Manager Robert V. Phillips and stricken DWP customers, union officials said power would be restored only in emergency cases.

Negotiations aimed at ending the three-day-old strike resumed Friday for the first time since 7,000 of 11,500 DWP employees walked off their jobs.

Talks overseen by a state mediator were conducted for nine hours but were recessed at the end of the day because of exhaustion by the negotiators, mediator Tom Vitaich said.

A union spokesman said some progress had been made but did not elaborate.

"We are negotiating in good faith to end this strike," said Phillips. "Service should be restored as soon as possible to all customers who are without power, regardless of what caused the outage."

Phillips said only the unions could end the power failures because all repair and maintenance crews are on strike. The DWP has warned 200,000 homes in the San Fernando Valley could be affected if there are more equipment failures because of hot temperatures and vandalism.

The union has denied involvement with the vandalism that has occurred since the strike began and promised to restore power in such cases. The unions have also offered a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of persons causing interruption of water and power service.

Superior Court Judge David Eagleson said he may dissolve a temporary restraining order issued earlier in the week against the strike because the DWP apparently is not enforcing the directive, despite violations by the unions.

There has been no sign of "irreparable damage" to the community because of cutoffs of water and power service, said Eagleson.

"The court does not make its orders lightly," said the judge, who scheduled a hearing for Wednesday to consider dissolving the ban.

Explosion kills 2, hurts 127

Combined News Services

DECATUR, Ill. — A mighty explosion and chemical-fed fire devastated a railroad yard Friday, claiming at least two lives and injuring 127 other persons — eight critically. The explosion and raging fires which reduced buildings to charred frames forced the evacuation of up to 30,000 persons from a three-square-mile area near downtown Decatur. The dead and those listed in critical condition were employees of the railroad. Others hurt included rail workers and persons living near the yard. City officials estimated damage to property, not including the rail yard, at $5 million. Railroad officials said a cause was not established but suggested one of five tank cars brought into the yard apparently was leaking, causing gas clouds to form. A spark may have set the gas afire, causing the propane in the car to explode.

Exxon profits up 52%

NEW YORK — Exxon Corp., the nation's biggest oil company, Friday reported a 52.8 per cent gain in earnings for the first half of 1974. The company's consolidated global profit was $1.555 billion or $6.95 a share against $1.018 billion or $4.54 a share a year ago. Second quarter net income was $850 million or $3.80 a share, up from $510 million or $2.27 a share last year.

Ailing Franco yields power

MADRID — Francisco Franco, 81, the "Caudillo" of Spain who seized power in one of the most ferocious civil conflicts of the 20th century and held it for 35 years, fell seriously ill Friday and turned over his post temporarily to his successor, Prince Juan Carlos. Franco was reported hemorrhaging internally and his condition, which had been described in optimistic terms Thursday, was reported serious. On his hospital bed, he signed a decree temporarily transferring power to the Juan Carlos under a law describing the 36-year-old grandson of Spain's last ruling monarch as "the Prince of Spain." Franco had been reported recovering Thursday from the circulatory ailment phlebitis. But Friday his condition suddenly worsened and he began bleeding internally and from the mouth.

Guerrillas hit pact

BEIRUT — The major-Palestinian groups Friday condemned an understanding reached between Egypt and Jordan on relations between King Hussein and the guerrilla movement. A communique issued by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Hussein in Alexandria Thursday described the Palestine Liberation Organization as the "legitimate" representative of Palestinians, but only those living outside Jordan. It called for a military disengagement agreement between Jordan and Israel, an action that presumably would rule out a Palestinian state on the occupied West Bank. Two guerrilla groups, Al Fatah and the Palestinian Liberation Organization, said the communique marked a "retreat from the resolutions of the Arab summit conference" held in Algiers last November which recognized the PLO as the sole representative of the Palestinians.

Soviet spacemen home

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union's two Soyuz 14 cosmonauts ended a two-week mission aboard the orbiting Salyut 3 space station Friday and returned safely to earth in a near pinpoint landing, the Tass news agency said. The flight of nearly 16 days, a warmup for next year's Soviet-American space linkup, was Russia's first successful space docking and return. It gave a badly needed boost to the Kremlin's troubled space program. It was the Soviets' second successful docking and return. Two Soyuz 10 cosmonauts docked with the first Salyut space station for five hours in April 1971 but did not enter it. In June 1971 three Soyuz-11 cosmonauts spent 24 days aboard Salyut 1 but died when a hatch seal failed during reentry to earth. Since then the Soviets modified the Soyuz and sent two of the craft aloft with two men instead of three in preparation for this mission. Salyut 2 broke up in space in April 1973, 11 days after launch.

Concorde kept alive

PARIS — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and French President Giscard d'Estaing Friday agreed to keep their costly Concorde supersonic jetliner program alive. A French government spokesman said the two countries would build 16 more of the sleek SSTs. The British rejected a French request to build a total of 19 more new planes, but lived up to their pledge to continue construction in the face of domestic demands that the program be scuttled. The two chiefs of state also agreed on a common program to drill for oil in the seabed between the westernmost tips of France and Britain as soon as an impartial arbitration determines the undersea dividing line between the two countries.

W. German, Czech pact

BONN — West Germany and Czechoslovakia formally established diplomatic relations Friday, 36 years after the Munich agreement gave Adolf Hitler permission to occupy Czechoslovakia on the eve of World War II. West German Foreign Minister Hans Dietrich Genscher and his Czech counterpart, Bohuslav Chroupek, exchanged leather-bound nonaggression treaties in the Grand Hall of Bonn's foreign ministry and toasted each other with champagne. The treaty completed Bonn's last major step in its Ostpolitik — the opening of relations with its Communist neighbors to the East. The pact nullified the 1938 agreement at Munich, hailed by one of its signers, Neville Chamberlain, as a guarantee of "peace in our time" but which quickly was overwhelmed by war.

Shepard, first man in space, to retire

Combined News Services

Rear Adm. Alan B. Shepard, who became the first American astronaut to venture into space and a decade later walked on the moon, announced his retirement from NASA Friday in Houston.

Ending his 30-year naval career which began with graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy, Shepard, already a successful businessman, will take a position with a Houston construction firm.

The boyish 50-year-old pioneer put the U.S. back in the space race when he flew the Mercury capsule Freedom 7, perched atop a pencil-slim Redstone rocket, on a suborbital mission May 5, 1961, that carried him 116.5 miles above the earth.

In 1963, Shepard was grounded by an inner-ear disorder that prevented him from flying and confined him to a desk. However, he underwent corrective surgery in May 1969 and was returned to full flight status.

At the age of 47, Shepard commanded Apollo 14 and became the fifth astronaut to walk on the moon Feb. 5, 1971.

He set another space first while on the moon when he pulled out a custom-made six-iron and blasted a golf ball for "miles and miles and miles."

Shepard, a test pilot who logged a total of 216 hours and 57 minutes in space, called his NASA career "a privilege and an honor."

Shepard's retirement becomes effective Aug. 1.

AMC boosts prices

DETROIT — American Motors Corp. said Friday it was increasing the average price of its cars and trucks by $33. It was the company's fifth price boost for 1974 model vehicles since last September. The new increases, the latest in a series by all automakers, raised the average price of its new cars and trucks by $347 since the introduction of the 1974 models.

Demo lawmaker guilty

NEW YORK — Brooklyn Democratic Congressman Frank Brascio was found guilty Friday night of bribery and conspiracy in a scheme to obtain post office contracts for a reputed mobster-run trucking firm. There was shock in the courtroom as the verdict was announced. Brascio, a four-term congressman and member of the House Post Office Committee, was accused of peddling his political influence for a $27,500 payoff in exchange for helping reputed mobster John "Gentlemen John" Masiello obtain valuable post office trucking contracts for Masiello's ANR Leasing Corp.

Comedian

Joe Flynn, 49, whose acting trademark was the fussy, fuming, inept stuffed shirt, was found dead Friday in his Bel-Air swimming pool.

He was probably best known as gruff, bumbling Capt. Wallace Binghamton on "McHale's Navy" on ABC from 1962-66. He appeared in numerous movies and on television.

His wife, Shirley, told authorities he went swimming late Thursday night. His 16-year-old son, Tony, discovered the body in the pool at 7:50 a.m. and called for a city fire department rescue ambulance.

Attempts to revive the veteran actor were unsuccessful. Cause of death was not immediately known.

Flynn only recently completed "The Strongest Man in the World," his ninth film for Walt Disney Productions. He was doing the voice of the villainous Mr. Snoops on a new cartoon feature, "The Rescuers."

Heroine

The body of Eva Peron, a heroine to Argentines, will be returned from Spain this year and interred beside her late husband, President Juan Peron, the government said Friday in Buenos Aires.

The general's third wife and political successor, President Maria Estela "Isabel" Peron, ordered the repatriation of the remains "in accordance with the will and express instructions of Peron."

As one of her first official acts in the presidential office, Mrs. Peron signed a bill two weeks ago ordering construction of a national pantheon to house the remains of the nation's heroes.

Eva Duarte Peron, commonly known as "Evita," won great popularity with Argentina's poor and the labor union movement. It took more than two weeks for mourners to pass by her coffin when she died in 1952 of cancer at the age of 33.

Argentines were unsuccessful in their attempts to have her declared a saint.

In a brief mention in the FCC's listing of applications received, the commission said she wants to accomplish this through transfer of stock to Lynda Bird Robb and Luci Baines Nugent, daughters of Mrs. Johnson and the late President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The stations involved are KLBJ-AM-FM. The Texas Broadcasting Corp., of which Mrs. Johnson is principal owner, last year asked the FCC to approve sale of the family's television station, KTBC, to the Times Mirror Co. of Los Angeles.

Morse

Senate nominee Wayne Morse, hospitalized for a urinary tract infection, was reported in stable and improved condition Friday.

A spokesman at Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland said the 73-year-old Morse had a good night's sleep and his temperature had come down.

Morse went to the hospital Wednesday night from the Portland hotel where he was staying while organizing his campaign against Republican Sen. Robert Packwood. The Eugene Democrat was ousted from the Senate by Packwood six years ago.

Farewell

Ousted antipoverty director Alvin J. Arnett bade an emotional farewell to his former employees Friday in Washington, saying his firing was "a very small price to pay" for having spurred new life into programs for the poor.

Arnett, who took over the Office of Economic Opportunity last year at a time when President Nixon wanted it dismantled, declared his confidence "that all we have set in motion will continue," even if OEO itself is dissolved.

He was summarily dismissed from his post late Thursday after having agreed under pressure only two days earlier to leave at the end of the month.

Nixon on Tuesday named Bert Gallegos, OEO general counsel, to succeed Arnett, who had effectively lobbied for congressional renewal of community action and legal services programs through transfers to other agencies.

Maybe

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said Friday in Chattanooga he will decide in the fall of 1975 whether he will make a bid for the presidency.

"I might just march up to New Hampshire, place my name on the primary and make the run if I am strong," Baker told the Chattanooga News-Free Press.

Baker, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, is married to the daughter of the late Sen. Everett Dirksen.

Calley

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans refused on Friday to reconsider releasing former Army Lt. William L. Calley on bail.

It voted against all its 15 judges rehearing a decision by a panel of three appeals court judges to revoke Calley's bail. Calley was convicted in a court-martial of murdering 22 Vietnamese villagers in My Lai. The court's announcement did not indicate the vote on the question. Two judges filed a dissent to the majority decision, a third said he wanted the record to show he had voted to reconsider the case, and a fourth said he did not vote.

But the doctor, who delivered about 2,500 babies in his career, has a few reservations about his longevity. "Old age is no fun," he said in an interview. "You lose your hearing and can't appreciate the rustle of a silk skirt anymore."

Hill said that although he neither smokes nor drinks, he attributes his health and long life to his family heritage. "You're nothing without that," he said.

Voluntary manslaughter convict given 15 years

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

Raimo Karen, one-time San Pedro longshoreman who was convicted last month of voluntary manslaughter in connection with a 1969 killing, Friday was sentenced to up to 15 years in state prison.

Karen, who acted as his own attorney through three trials and two successful appeals convictions, immediately served notice he also intends to appeal this latest conviction.

The 32-year-old defendant originally was accused and convicted of murder in the shooting death of teen-ager Gilbert Armijo, killed after being accosted by several persons while he was on a date in San Pedro's Point Fermin Park. But that conviction and a subsequent one were overturned on technicalities. The effect was to lower Karen's maximum penalty from murder to second degree murder to voluntary manslaughter.

The voluntary manslaughter sentence was handed down Friday by Long Beach Superior Court Judge John A. Arguelles, who heard Karen's jury trial two months ago.

Karen's self-taught courtroom style — moving slowly and painstakingly from one small detail to the next — was a major factor behind the trial's length of nearly five weeks, including a long list of pretrial defense motions.

Friday, with Karen again working to leave no legal stone unturned, his probation and sentence hearing — normally a brief proceeding — lasted almost an hour.

He charged there were a variety of errors and omissions in the probation officer's report on his case, pointing them out one by one. When the judge interjected that citing each instance was not necessary, Karen simply continued.

He argued that "the defendant's real problem seems to be alcohol," indicating that the public good might better be served if he were rehabilitated through Alcoholics Anonymous rather than state prison.

He pointed out that he had been a model prisoner in the more than five years since his arrest for Armijo's death, and he submitted to the judge more than a dozen letters of character reference, including four which contained job offers.

Finally, he asked the court to follow the probation officer's suggestion and send him for 90 days to undergo diagnostic testing. Under such a procedure, Karen then would return to court and the judge would withhold sentencing until that time.

Judge Arguelles took notice of the defendant's conduct in prison and letters, but said he had been disturbed during Karen's trial by the defendant's allegations that police investigators had "manufactured" evidence — a bloodstained pair of pants.

Pay hikes for L.A. police get tentative OK

Associated Press

Pay raises of about 8.5 per cent for Los Angeles' 7,300 police officers won tentative approval from the City Council Friday.

A final vote is scheduled in another week. Officials say the wage and fringe-benefit increase would cost the city $11 million. Officers now earn a starting salary of $11,254.

Councilman Ernani Bernardi cast the only dissenting vote, saying he questioned a higher raise for Police Chief Edward M. Davis, whose current salary of $52,509 is to rise about $30,000 in five years.

Auto crash victim dies

Gerald W. Leonhardt of Costa Mesa, injured in an automobile collision on the San Diego Freeway near Fairview Road in Orange County about 1 a.m. Friday, died about 2:30 p.m. at Costa Mesa Hospital, coroner's deputies reported.

They said Leonhardt, 37, was alone in his car when it went out of control on the freeway's northbound lanes and swerved into an unoccupied automobile parked on the freeway shoulder.

L.A. judge's order blocks nudity ban

Associated Press

A Superior Court judge blocked Los Angeles police Friday from enforcing the city's new anti-nudity ordinance.

Judge David Eagleson granted a temporary restraining order at the request of American Civil Liberties Union attorneys, who argued that the ordinance is superseded by state law. They said nudity is legal under California codes.

Eagleson scheduled a preliminary injunction hearing for Aug. 2.

Councilman Donald Lorenzen, who wrote the ordinance, called the restraining order "a damn shame."

"The majority of the people and the majority of the councilmen voted for the complete ban," he said. "When a small group such as the ACLU can successfully get a court order on what the majority wants, it's coming to a pretty sad state of affairs."

Police Chief Ed Davis, who vigorously advocated the measure, declined comment.

Popeil slay-conspiracy trial to begin Monday

The Popeil murder conspiracy trial will begin at 9 a.m. Monday in Los Angeles Superior Court before Judge Mark Brandler.

Selection of the jury of five women, seven men and three men-alternates was completed Thursday.

Defendants Eloise Popeil, 48, of Newport

Beach, and Dan Ayers, 37, of Santa Ana, are charged with attempting to arrange a $50,000 "contract" killing in which the intended victim was Mrs. Popeil's estranged husband, a Chicago multimillionaire industrialist.

The trial is expected to last up to six weeks, according to estimates from counsel.

Alleged ambulance chaser 'discouraged' at L.B. General

By NOEL SWANN
Our L.A. Bureau

A Long Beach General Hospital official testified Friday he "discouraged" two alleged members of an ambulance-chasing ring from working as volunteers at his hospital.

Alan Meyer, Volunteer Services director at the Long Beach facility, told a hearing convened by Supervisor Baxter Ward he was approached early in 1972 by Linda Berni, who said she wanted to work with Spanish-speaking patients at the hospital.

Meyer said he told Mrs. Berni that if she wanted to be a volunteer she could not single out one group of patients but had to work with all of them.

ambulance-chasing activities.

Meyer said he learned later from officials at the County-USC Medical Center that the Friends group was "considered undesirable."

"It appears you were successful in keeping these people out of your hospital," said Ward. "Do you have an opinion as to why they were not kept out of the medical center?"

"Well, that's a very big operation," said Meyer. "And I suppose it would have been much more difficult to keep track of them."

EARLIER Paul Drozd, a former associate administrator at the medical center, insisted there were no political considerations causing delays in an investigation of the Friends group. Drozd said he simply felt that the matter was being handled by the State Bar.

Ward then questioned Drozd extensively about his handling of the Friends probe and asked, "Did anyone tell you not to take action against the group?"

"Absolutely not," said Drozd. "I've never been intimidated in my handling of this matter, either politically or otherwise."

Drozd said he first sent a letter to the State Bar in June 1972, providing names of patients who had been solicited as legal clients after being in auto accidents.

Class action

I've heard that several million dollars in damages were awarded recently in a class action lawsuit against the Continental Casualty Insurance Co. in Chicago, Ill. I believe the suit alleged that payments weren't made on injury claims and that the company canceled the policies after claims were filed. Can ACTION LINE tell me if this information is correct? If so, how can I find out if I am entitled to any of the settlement? I used to be insured with Continental Casualty, A.F., Long Beach.

You were misinformed. No such suit has been filed against Continental Casualty, according to spokesmen for the Chicago Insurance firm and the Illinois Department of Insurance.

The case you describe sounds like a class action lawsuit that was filed against the United Insurance Co. of America. In an out-of-court settlement in May, the company agreed to pay up to $6 million in claims that policyholders alleged they had been unable to collect. The suit charged that customers were told that their disability insurance policies were guaranteed renewable for life, but, according to the plaintiffs, when they filed a claim, the company added a rider to their policies excluding their particular disability or canceled the policy at the next renewal date. A retired Superior Court judge, Charles G. Stratton, was appointed to arbitrate disputes about claims and disburse the money. The deadline for filing a claim was June 3, but, according to a spokesman for United, some concessions may be made if the claimant was unaware of the settlement. Contact Stratton at P.O. Box 2600, Long Beach, Calif. 90801 for more information.

Borderline case

Recently I went to the supermarket and bought a six-pack of Coca-Cola. As I was drinking it I discovered that it was bottled in Mexico. Is this because someone brought it back from Mexico? J.A., Long Beach.

Yes. Apparently a wholesaler made a purchase of Coca-Cola in a Mexican city which has an independent bottling franchise, brought it back across the border and sold it to the supermarket, according to Allen Clark, supervisor of public services for the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Los Angeles. Most major Mexican cities have Coca-Cola bottling franchises including Tijuana, Ensenada, Mexicali, Hermosillo, Mazatlan, Guadalajara and Mexico City, Clark said. Foreign franchises buy Coca-Cola syrup from the Coca-Cola Export Corp. of New York City and bottle or can it according to the corporation's specifications. Clark said the Coca-Cola brought in from Mexico was probably less expensive for the supermarket to buy because of lower Mexican labor costs.

Maiden name

I have been married for five years and I would like to use my maiden name for professional purposes. What would it cost to have my name legally changed? What is the purpose of a hyphenated name? T.C., Wilmington.

If you use your maiden name for professional purposes only, you will not need to have it changed by the court but your identification cards should reflect both names, according to a feminist attorney in Los Angeles. Your legal name would still be deemed that of your husband. Under common law, a person can call himself anything he chooses as long as there is no intent to defraud and if you choose to use only your maiden name, you don't have to go to court to do so; you just start using the name you want. However, many attorneys recommend obtaining court approval to avoid possible future problems such as those with financial institutions or government offices that insist either on documented proof of a person's name or accept only traditional legal names. A hyphenated name indicates that both names are equally important, but some institutions may not accept hyphenated names. It will cost at least $125 in filing and other court-required fees plus attorney's charges to have your name changed in court. "In all, it'll probably cost not less than $300 at rock bottom," she said.

HELP!

The East Long Beach Neighborhood Center's summer youth program needs donations of money, art supplies, office supplies, craft materials, recreational equipment, paints and brushes, tools, plants and planters and building materials. We have some 500 needy youngsters in such programs as the summer day camp, environmental improvement project and the mural project. Contributions may be made at the center at 2338 E. Anaheim St. and all help will be appreciated. M.M., Long Beach.

REACTION

There was a typographical error in the recent ACTION LINE item on the Supplemental Security Income program, which replaced the state Old Age Security, Aid to the Totally Disabled and Aid to the Blind. To qualify for SSI benefits a person must not have more than $1,500 in cash, not $6,500 as stated in your column. D.B., Long Beach.

Salty Nixon language revealed

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A newly published transcript says that President Nixon, declaring he didn't know whether ITT was "bad, good or indifferent," ordered in salty language that his antitrust chief abandon all efforts to block the biggest corporate merger in history.

Nixon's order, on April 19, 1971, followed months of relentless pressure by ITT executives on numerous high government officials to drop the case and came at the same time ITT was offering to put up $200,000 to defray expenses of the 1972 GOP National Convention proposed for San Diego.

Talking to Richard G. Kleindienst, then deputy attorney general, about the antitrust efforts of Richard McLaren, head of the Antitrust Division, Nixon said:

"I WANT something clearly understood, and, if it is not understood, McLaren's ass is to be out within one hour. The IT and T thing — stay the hell out of it."

"Is that clear? That's an order. The order is to leave the God-damn thing alone."

"Now I've said this, Dick, a number of times, and you fellows apparently don't get the message over there. I do not want McLaren to run around prosecuting people, raising hell about conglomerates, stirring things up at this point. Now you keep him the hell out of that. Is that clear?"

"Or either he resigns. I'd rather have him out, anyway. I don't like the son of a bitch."

Kleindienst, later nominated to succeed John N. Mitchell as attorney general, said at his confirmation hearing the following March: "I was not interfered with by anybody at the White House. I was not importuned; I was not pressured; I was not directed."

ON MAY 16, Kleindienst pleaded guilty to not telling the truth and was given a one-month suspended sentence.

However, none of the material about the ITT-Kleindienst matter published Friday by the House Judiciary Committee as impeachment evidence shows that Nixon was aware of Kleindienst's lies. But Kleindienst's statements received heavy news coverage at the time and were of such concern at the White House that a special committee was formed to shepherd the nomination through the Senate.

Nor did the evidence appear directly to link Nixon's actions in the ITT case with the corporation's convention pledge.

In defense of Nixon, James D. St. Clair, his impeachment lawyer, argued that McLaren had no knowledge of ITT's pledge at the time.

"There exists no testimonial or documentary evidence to indicate that the President had any part, directly or indirectly, in the settlement of the ITT antitrust cases," St. Clair said.

McLaren lost his attempt to block ITT's merger intentions in the lower courts, but was confident of winning in the Supreme Court. When Nixon learned that the next day was the last day for an appeal to the high court, he acted swiftly.

"I DON'T know whether ITT is bad, good or indifferent," he told Kleindienst. "But there is not going to be any more antitrust actions as long as I am in this chair... God damn it, we're going to stop it."

Nixon also said of Harold Geneen, chairman of ITT, "Hell, he's no contributor. He's nothing to us. I don't care about him."

Nixon rages at officials for failure to do his bidding

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the privacy of the most powerful office in the world, President Nixon raged at his inability to get his own bureaucracy to do his bidding.

"We have no discipline in this bureaucracy," a House Judiciary Committee transcript made public on Friday quoted Nixon as telling George Shultz when he was director of the Office of Management and Budget.

"We never fire anybody. We never reprimand anybody. We never demote anybody. We always promote the sons of bitches that kick us in the ass," the President said in the April 19, 1971, conversation.

The target of presidential anger was an unnamed Small Business Administration official in San Francisco.

"This fellow deliberately did not — I read the memorandum — he did not carry out an order I personally gave," said Nixon. "I wrote the order out (unintelligible). And the son of a bitch did not do it."

"Now, I don't care what he is. Get him out of there. Get him out of San Francisco."

NIXON SAID an example should be set "as a warning to a few other people around in this government that we are going to quit being a bunch of Goddamn soft-headed managers."

"You've got to get us some discipline, George," the President told Shultz.

"You've got to get it," he added, "and the only way you get it is, when a bureaucrat deliberately thumbs his nose, we're going to get him... I know the Civil Service pressure. But you can do a lot there, too."

Then, in an apparent reference to his complaint about the San Francisco SBA office, Nixon said:

"One hundred and five applications processed out of four thousand in four months, three months, or whatever it was, two months. Goddamn it, that's terrible...."

"So whatever you — well, maybe he is in the regional office. Fine. Demote him, or send him to the — send him to the Guam Regional office. There's a way. Get him the hell out."

The case later was settled out of court in negotiations between ITT and McLaren, named by Nixon the following February to be a federal district judge in Chicago.

The day, however, Nixon learned of McLaren's intentions to pursue the ITT case he was furious.

"Jesus, he's — get him out," Nixon told aide John D. Ehrlichman. "In one hour, one hour. And he's not going to be a judge, either. He is out of the God-damn government...."

'Cannonball' reminisces

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Joe Hatfield was once a daring human cannonball who headlined carnivals from Maine to Mississippi. Now he's confined to a wheelchair — his past stuffed in two envelopes of yellowed clippings and faded photographs.

The 62-year-old performer, who claims to be a descendant of the feuding Hatfield clan of West Virginia, is crippled with arthritis.

"If I could, I'd be in some rag-tag old carnival now, seeing what's going on," he said at Tampa Veteran's Hospital, where he is recovering from surgery.

"It's the damndest thing, this arthritis," Hatfield said as he reached painfully for the folders that lay next to his bed. But his blue eyes brightened as he fetched a scratched snapshot from his 37-year career.

"Cannonball" Hatfield was blasted out of the barrel of a cannon 1,200 times; drove nails up his nose in sidshow extras and pulled a 90-pound weight across a table with his eyelids.

"Do you know what it's like to feel the applause of 60,000 people — that's why I did it, and did it over and over," he said, sorting through a lapful of memories.

His silver hair thinned on top, Hatfield sometimes stumbled over words or missed a date now and then. He leaned back and in his throaty voice told about his flying debut.

"We were sitting with a fifth of whiskey when I heard this guy tell the boss I'd substitute in the cannon act. I thought he was kidding. At 10 that night I crawled inside and the torpedo shot me out. It was a hell of a feeling. But the money was good — $150-$175 a week, and that was 20 years ago. So I became 'Cannonball.'"

Hatfield, who dropped out of school in the third grade, joined the Navy at 16 and turned to carnival work after his stint was done.

"I had no education and I wanted to learn something. I was very observant. I'd see other guys doing acts, studied them and tried it by myself. When I got good enough at it, I moved on and started my own act," he said.

Hatfield, who now lives in Melbourne, Fla., says that if he had it to do over again, he'd change nothing.

"You can't die but once, and when you go you're gonna be a long time dead."

IMPEACHMENT

on the proposed impeachment articles to the committee but one member said "reasonable men acting reasonably would find the President guilty."

Doar told newsmen as he left the hearing room that he believes the evidence warrants impeachment of the President.

"That is my judgment as a legal matter, yes," he said.

The article regarding the Watergate coverup and the burglary itself notes that Nixon was named an unindicted conspirator by the Watergate grand jury in the coverup.

"For his part in it," the article reads, "he has been found by a jury to have participated in a criminal conspiracy to obstruct justice, but not indicted, solely by reason of his office, leaving the pursuit of justice no recourse but through the constitutional process of impeachment and removal from office."

The committee is expected to vote late next week on proposed articles of impeachment. If they are approved and the House adopts them, they would serve as the basis for arguing Nixon's removal from office in a Senate trial.

MEMBERS said Doar and Republican counsel Albert Jenner accused Nixon of broad abuse of power including the Watergate cover-up and approval of domestic surveillance.

Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, said the thrust of Doar's presentation was "certainly that he would recommend impeachment on one or more articles" but other members agreed Doar did not specifically recommend impeachment.

As Doar left the hearing room, however, he told newsmen his judgment that the evidence warrants impeachment was not ever "a close call."

Did this evidence include obstruction of justice, he was asked.

"OF COURSE," Doar replied.

Doar said he got only through the Watergate section of his presentation at the opening closed-door deliberations.

Members said other sections include evidence on Nixon's taxes, the ITT and milk matters, misuse of federal agencies and contempt in refusing to honor the committee's subpoenas for tapes.

Another committee session was arranged for today, and the case against impeachment is to be presented Monday, members said. A committee vote on impeachment is expected late next week.

Then the matter would be taken up by the House, and if voted for impeachment, a Senate trial would be held in the fall.

DEMOCRATS, including Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman of New York, said Doar "thought the President authorized and directed the cover-up" but that some Republicans objected to his reasoning.

The senior Democrat who took notes and refused to be named quoted Doar as saying the 18-minute gap in a June 20, 1972, tape, was among evidence implicating Nixon in the cover-up — and that if Nixon did not know of the cover-up until March 21, 1973, as he says "from that time on he has been in charge of it."

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., said "the concealment and potential conspiracy are all put together in such a way that the members have to put together their own inferences."

But Republicans including Rep. David W. Dennis of Indiana said "this is a case of circumstantial evidence and he (Doar) marshaled the circumstances and drew the inferences and conclusion."

"I THINK someone can take the same circumstances and draw different inferences and conclusions," Dennis said.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., said Doar's presentation was based on "the abuse of power thing" and rested on the question of whether the Constitution provides for impeachment on abuse of power.

"If he's wrong on the Constitution," Wiggins contended, "the whole thing goes down."

But Rep. Edward Mezeynsky, D-Iowa, said, "I think there is a change in climate" in the committee that is "building for the committee to move ahead and recommend impeachment."

"Unless other facts come out to the contrary," Mezeynsky said, "the President is in real trouble with the Judiciary Committee."

ALTHOUGH disagreeing on his conclusions, Republicans and Democrats alike agreed Doar presented a thorough legal case and for the first time took the role of an advocate for impeachment.

Doar moved into the new role, said Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., of going beyond his previous objective statements of only the facts.

"I think Mr. Doar has become for the committee," she said, "an advocate for the truth on behalf of the facts as he sees them which would lead to impeachment."

Few Republicans said they objected to such advocacy.

Also on Friday the Judiciary Committee released new volumes of evidence regarding the milk fund case.

In the transcript of one milk price conversation at the White House, President Nixon concluded that he must raise milk price supports, against the advice of his economists, because Congress was about to pass a bill or raise the price supports by law. Neither Nixon nor his aides specifically mentioned a $2 million promise for campaign funds by dairy co-ops, but after the meeting, presidential aides moved immediately to secure a reaffirmation of a campaign pledge from leaders of Associated Milk Producers, Inc.

Suspect surrenders in L.B. hit-run death

An eight-hour search by police and witnesses for a hit-run auto that left an elderly woman dead in a Long Beach intersection ended early Friday with the surrender of a 26-year-old newspaper employee.

Police said Michael Thomas Roland, of 16682 Arbor Road, Huntington Beach, walked into the Long Beach police station about 4 a.m., accompanied by a friend.

Roland, a circulation district manager for the Independent, Press-Telegram, was charged with vehicle manslaughter and felony hit-run. He was freed on $1,500 bail. Police impounded his white and green 1974 Mercury Cougar.

The victim, Ada Mae Henderson, 61, of 2234½ Lime Ave., Long Beach, was crossing the street in a marked crosswalk at 21st Street and Atlantic Avenue about 8 p.m. Thursday when a speeding car struck with such force that she was knocked 44 feet and one of her legs was severed.

Witnesses told police the hit-run car seemed to brake just before it struck the woman, and one reported the auto accelerated immediately after the collision. Another witness told police he attempted to follow the fleeing car but lost it several blocks away.

Almost eight hours later, as police and witnesses continued to search for the car, Roland walked into the police station. Officers said Roland had been drinking but refused to submit to a breathalyzer test.

going there to bring peace also to the Greeks," Erevit said. "I sincerely believe our decision will be a great service to all humanity and to world peace."

"We were forced to take this decision after trying all political and diplomatic paths. I hope no fire will be opened on our forces and a bloody conflict avoided. We are going to Cyprus not to make war but to restore peace."

In San Clemente, Calif., White House spokesmen said Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger were "following the situation," but had no immediate comment. They said Kissinger had consulted with British leaders by telephone, but did not say what was discussed.

THE LATEST Cyprus crisis — Turkey, Greece and Britain have been quarreling over the future of the island for 40 years — began building on Monday when militant Greek Cypriots, supported by Greek army officers commanding the Cypriot national guard, overthrew the elected government of President Archbishop Makarios.

As president, they installed Nicos Sampson, a young newspaper publisher once condemned to die for terrorist acts against the British.

Greece denied any complicity in the coup, saying it was an internal Cypriot affair.

Turkey accused Greece of instigating Makarios' overthrow and immediately ordered a troop alert, but held off any immediate action to await the outcome of a series of diplomatic moves.

THE decades-old dispute between Greece and Turkey, partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, had acquired a new dimension recently when large oil deposits were found in the Aegean Sea where the two countries are unable to agree on territorial water boundaries.

After the Cyprus coup, Erevit headed for London in a vain effort to convince the British government — guarantor of the 1960 treaty making Cyprus independent with special protection for the Turks — to join Turkey in action against the Cypriot rebels.

Britain did not agree immediately, and NATO allies instead tried to pressure Greece into undoing the coup. After two emergency meetings at NATO headquarters in Brussels, Greece agreed only to replace the 650 Cypriot national guard officers accused of staging the coup.

Makarios, who barely escaped from the island with his life, traveled to the United Nations in New York to make a dramatic appeal for world action to restore him to power.

THE OUSTED leader appeared before the Security Council to urge that body to "use all the ways and means at its disposal" to reverse the coup that removed him from the presidency of Cyprus. At the same time the U.S. counseled against a "rush to judgment."

Makarios charged that the military uprising that deposed him Monday was instigated by the military junta in Athens and led by Greek officers of the Cypriot national guard.

"The Greek junta has extended its dictatorship to Cyprus," he told the 15-nation council.

Most Security Council members appeared ready to demand the withdrawal of Greek military forces before a delegation from the rebel regime could arrive.

But U.S. Ambassador John Scali appealed to all governments to "resist the temptation to settle this problem by force and turn to negotiation."

"Many members feel that the Security Council should pronounce itself quickly," Scali said. "On the other hand, the council should seek to bring about a peaceful solution."

"WHAT WE should not be seeking are pronouncements which serve only propaganda or are without practical purpose or would serve inflammatory purposes. The United States considers it to be a serious error to rush to judgment."

Scali added that Makar-

Reinecke testimony on Mitchell bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California told a federal grand jury last February that he informed former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell on May 21, 1971, about a Sheraton Corp. pledge of $200,000 to defray costs of the Republican National Convention in San Diego.

Reinecke's secret testimony of last Feb. 4 was read to the jury in U.S. District Court on Friday just before the government wound up its perjury case against him.

Reinecke's perjury charges stem from his statements to the Senate Judiciary Committee that he didn't discuss the pledge with Mitchell until September, 1971.

The jurors, who are sequestered for the duration of the trial, were sent to their quarters for the weekend after the prosecution rested its case.

Pentagon orders units of 6th Fleet nearer Cyprus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon early Saturday ordered the U.S. carrier Forrestal and other naval vessels toward Cyprus to be in position in case U.S. citizens have to be evacuated in the increasingly tense crisis.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim announced that "in view of the new developments, some U.S. ships will approach closer to Cyprus in order to enhance our capability to evacuate U.S. citizens, should that contingency arise."

Pentagon officials have estimated there are about 3,200 Americans including tourists on the island.

Friedheim refused to discuss the possibility that U.S. warships might intervene in the Cyprus situation, which took a grave turn with the announced landing of Turkish troops.

Since the crisis erupted early this week, defense officials pointedly have shown that the U.S. wants to avoid any military involvement there and hopes the British will take the lead in whatever steps are necessary.

Friedheim said he will not provide any further details on the exact location or composition of the U.S. naval elements being ordered closer to Cyprus.

However, he noted that some ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet "had been holding south of Crete some 24 hours steaming time from Cyprus."

The most important U.S. ship in that area is the carrier Forrestal, which along with six destroyers was kept at sea when the crisis broke out rather than returning to port in Greece as scheduled.

There were some indications that the helicopter carrier Inchon, which operates with the 6th Fleet's amphibious forces, also is being moved toward Cyprus.

The amphibious group carries some 1,300 Marines who conceivably could be put ashore to shield any American evacuation.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger went to the Pentagon to study reports coming from Cyprus.

Friedheim said he did not expect any emergency strategy meetings involving the Joint Chiefs of Staff during the night.

Officials said it will take several hours to assess the situation on Cyprus where Turkish troops have come ashore, according to a Turkish government announcement.

NO RECESSION

inflation" in the remainder of the year. He predicted, as the administration has before, that inflation will come down to about 7 per cent by the end of the year. But he said from then on "the going will get tougher" to reduce inflation further.

Stein was asked if the one per cent cost of living increase in June, bringing the rise in consumer prices to an annual rate of 12 per cent, and the dip in Gross National Product for the second quarter in a row meant the nation was in a recession, as some experts say.

"This is not a condition that can be called a recession," Stein declared. He pointed to rising employment rates and asserted that "the whole decline in the GNP in the second quarter was a result of a decline in the earnings from U.S. assets owned abroad ... from U.S.-owned oil companies" which suffered from takeovers abroad by foreign governments.

Stein said he was not suggesting that the inflation problem is licked or that it will be easy to overcome. "There is a major inflation problem before us," he said, "and we are left only with the fundamental policies to deal with it."

Stein said, "It was a mistake to have gone into price-wage controls. I think we would have less inflation now if we had not done that."

Prof predicts impeachment

By GLENN LEIBOWITZ
Staff Writer

The Supreme Court, by a 5 to 3 or 6 to 2 decision, will order President Nixon to surrender records of presidential conversations sought as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial, an assistant professor of government predicted in Long Beach Friday.

Dr. Gordon Lloyd, who teaches at the University of Redlands, told a Lions Club luncheon in the Lafayette that he also predicts that Nixon will be impeached by the House of Representatives.

However, he added that the week before he felt the President would not be impeached.

Lloyd said the impeachment process should work with "revolutionary sobriety and conservative liberalism."

He took the House Judiciary Committee to task for allowing its hearings to take on "the character of an impeachment process," but he added that excuses used to justify the excesses of Watergate are not valid.

"TO SAY, as Republicans do, that Nixon 'is the victim of a liberal press, is simply a politician who happened to be caught at what all politicians do and is not responsible for what happened as a result of Watergate'...that is a lot of expletive deleted," he said.

He said that as the nation's 200th birthday approaches, Americans are hardly in a celebrating mood, due largely to depression over the current state of affairs in the government.

Dr. Lloyd declined to take a position on whether Nixon will comply or disregard the impending Supreme Court tape decision but he theorized what would take place when the decision is finally handed down.

"If he (Nixon) doesn't (comply), then those Congressmen who have been waiting for more evidence and proof positive that Nixon has clearly violated a specific law will have the evidence and proof they need. The Supreme Court has spoken and Nixon has violated a decision of the court."

If Nixon does comply with an order to turn over the tapes "it will take a long time to transcribe those tapes which have not been destroyed or doctored and the committee already will have made its recommendation," Lloyd said.

IF THE COURT rules in Nixon's favor "it shouldn't affect the (impeachment) process but it will," he said, "just as the not guilty verdicts of (John) Mitchell and (Maurice) Stans and the guilty verdicts of (John) Erlichman et al influenced the progress of impeachment."

Also speaking during the luncheon was Robert W. Hunt, an associate professor of philosophy at the University of Redlands.

Hunt said impeachment is a method of preserving a form of government and for removing those who abuse it, not an instrument of destruction.

He criticized those who look solely at the words of the Constitution when making determinations of what constitutes an impeachable offense. He said the words must be looked at with an eye toward the situation in which they are being applied.

When determining what is an impeachable offense, a vast amount of time must be spent analyzing and studying circumstances as well as words, he said.

Fair will stress senior activities

A Senior Discovery Fair designed to show elderly persons how to become active in the community will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today in the clubhouse at Martin Luther King Park, 1950 California Ave.

"Too often senior citizens are put on the shelf," said Frances Bond, a member of the Long Beach Commission on Economic Opportunities, one of the sponsoring agencies.

She said the fair will instruct the seniors on developing leadership, setting up clubs and general organization as well as providing sessions on physical fitness, charm and various forms of recreation.

The first-time fair also is sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Department, the Los Angeles Department of Parks and Recreation, Retired Seniors Volunteer Program and Senior Opportunities and Services.

Admission is free.

2 colleges restructure to aid disabled students

Long Beach City and Los Angeles Harbor colleges will begin work this month on more than $85,000 in improvements designed to remove architectural barriers that keep physically handicapped students from using portions of the campus.

The funds, made available through a grant by the State Department of Rehabilitation, will be used at L.A. Harbor to install an elevator in a classroom building and a ramp to the bungalow area. The rehabilitation office will also receive minor structural changes to expand its services. At LBCC, two elevators and a lowered telephone will be added.

The grants were made on a four-to-one matching basis with the colleges providing at least 20 percent of the total cost. Most of the work on both campuses is expected to be completed by the opening of school in September.

Futurist offers learning plan

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Dr. Harold Shane, one of America's leading education futurists, wondered if his USC audience of Southland school superintendents had ever watched a group of youngsters play tag.

"The youngest kid usually ends up being 'it' several times in a row, since he's a little slower than the others. Pretty soon the youngster is on the verge of tears."

"Then one of the older kids purposely lets himself be tagged, so the younger child will get a break."

A child might spend one or several years in kindergarten, for example, he said. "Kindergarten would be a ready room, not a romper room."

Children would continue to move through school at the rate their abilities allowed.

"We already do that in graduate schools, where ages range from 25 to 60," he said.

High schools and colleges would be a blend of on-the-job experience and classroom learning.

Compensatory education — special help for disadvantaged children in low-income districts — would become "supportive education" in which special help would be available to everyone who needed it.

Shane also foresaw an increasing return to basic skills such as reading and writing, particularly in elementary grades.

Although teachers will retain some of the "more human" teaching methods developed in the 1960s, the permissive classroom will disappear and teachers will take more of a "directive" role, Shane said.

THAT KIND of attitude can be used by school systems of the future to respond to the rapidly changing — and increasingly threatening — world that's emerging, said Shane, an Indiana University professor and author of "The Educational Significance of the Future."

In the same way that graduate students serve as teaching assistants for undergraduates, 10-year-olds could help teach 6-year-olds, or brighter kids could help youngsters of the same age with special problems.

Shane, who spoke Friday at USC's annual seminar for school superintendents, had earlier detailed a rapidly approaching future world in which population explosions, scarcity of food and energy crises would drastically reduce the affluence of Americans.

Agreeing with many present-day futurists, Shane said the entire world's younger generation — including American youngsters — are facing "a very tough and very grim future" in which millions of persons in underdeveloped "fourth world" nations may die from starvation in a matter of months.

FACED with such a world, the day-to-day problems that educators now occupy themselves with will be virtually irrelevant, Shane said.

He indicated that present school practices — such as arranging grade levels by age groupings — will become quickly obsolete.

"We have to think of lifelong education, where people move in and out of schools and jobs and advance through increasingly more difficult learning without such hindrances," he said.

Leader of L.B. Airport honored

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Nicholas Dallas, director of aeronautics for the City of Long Beach, has been named "Airport Manager of the Year" by the California Association of Airport Executives at their 28th annual conference.

The selection, by secret ballot, is based on "how an airport manager meets the requirements of new aircraft equipment, changing emphasis on land use and adaptation to broadening environmental impacts, as well as general efficiency in his day-to-day operation of the airfield."

In conjunction with the CAAE award, Dallas also received a cash prize from the Aero Club of Southern California, an organization of private citizens interested in the general welfare of aviation.

DALLAS has been director of aeronautics in Long Beach since 1962. He first worked for the city, however, as a lifeguard in the 1930s, when he was a student and star swimmer and water-polo player at Polytechnic High School.

In 1937, he joined the Marine Corps Air Reserve program at Long Beach Airport and, while attending the University of Oregon, learned to fly in the Civilian Pilot Training program there.

During World War II, he was a Naval aviator, serving four years and flying predominantly multiengine aircraft. He has a total of 12,000 hours flying time.

NICHOLAS DALLAS

Following the war, Dallas returned to work for the city. With another break for military service during the Korean War he was assistant manager and manager of the commercial division of the city's utilities services and business manager of the Health Department.

UNDER Dallas' direction, Long Beach Airport has become one of the nation's leading "all-purpose" airports. It is the second largest in the world in aircraft manufacture, as the site of McDonnell Douglas Corp. It also is one of the country's leading fields for aircraft sales.

In addition, Long Beach Airport has a limited commercial passenger service, air freight, and is a major center for private aircraft.

LONG BEACH ATTORNEY Herbert W. Stoltenberg pushes what he hopes is his luck — a wheelbarrow — for a big race Sunday in Placerville. The 80-pound wooden barrows will be loaded down with 50 pounds of gravel.

L.B. attorney pushes into wheelbarrow run

By KATHIE ESTELLE
Staff Writer

Long Beach attorney Herbert W. Stoltenberg has been training for the past year to push a wheelbarrow one-quarter mile.

But Stoltenberg and 11 to 15 other contestants at the John M. Studebaker International Wheelbarrow Race in Placerville Sunday will not be pushing ordinary wheelbarrows.

Their 80-pound wooden barrows will be weighted down with 50 pounds of gravel and pushed by the contestants over, around and under a rugged obstacle course which includes a rock pile, a steep hill, mudholes and a 6-inch-wide bridge.

THE RACE, now in its 37th year, is part of the El Dorado County Fair. It was named for a man who made wheelbarrows and wagons for Placerville miners in the 1850s. Studebaker later returned to his home town of South Bend, Ind., to join his brothers in forming the Studebaker Corp., automobile manufacturer.

Stoltenberg first got the wheelbarrow-race bug in 1957 while working for the U.S. Forest Service in the Placerville area. At that time, he says, the prospect of winning $500 prize money enticed him to enter. Stoltenberg figured the money could come in handy when it came time to pay tuition for UCLA Law School, which he entered that year.

Since then, the attorney, whose offices are at 3711 Long Beach Blvd., has run the course 13 times, taking first place in 1968 and 1969. He finished second in 1970 and third in 1971.

Stoltenberg now says it is the challenge of completing the rugged course and not the reduced first-prize money that keeps him going back every year.

"I suppose the younger men do it for the money because they need it to finish school or something," he says. "But for me it's the challenge of doing it. Besides, the race gives me incentive to stay in shape."

The attorney, who stands about 6 feet tall and has a slender, muscular frame, says the wheelbarrow race also proves that bigger is not necessarily better.

"There's one guy who stands about 6 feet, 6 inches tall and is very well built, but I've beat him. I don't think he's ever finished better than second," Stoltenberg says.

But the course is rugged. Stoltenberg admits "it helps to be in good shape, especially with your wind." He runs about four miles a day, year 'round, and lifts weights.

"Some of the people who live in the Placerville area have even constructed their own obstacle courses to train on," he says.

Even the best training, however, still can leave a man at the mercy of fate. For if there is less than five pounds of gravel in his wheelbarrow at the end, the contestant is disqualified. Entrants must guess when they reach 50 pounds, for no scales are provided, Stoltenberg says.

"MY BROTHER Edwin beat me out one year, but he only had 49½ pounds of gravel, and I won," he says.

Despite the treacherous course and the heavy load, the attorney says most contestants finish.

"Some of them start vomiting or need oxygen," he says, but they finish. Stoltenberg says men who quit are booed by the crowd until they go back and complete the course.

Asked if he expects to win the upcoming race, Stoltenberg just smiles and says, "I don't know. I'll give it a try."

open to youngsters from all over the city, covers a course that includes jumps, banked curves, berms and mud holes, Clark said. The motocross races at Carmelitos are being held on the third Saturday of each month.

Youngsters wishing to participate should sign up at Carmelitos before 10:30 a.m.

Water Week tours slated

In observance of Better Water for People Week, the Long Beach Water Commission has voted to hold an open house at the city's water-treatment plant and control center, Spring Street and Redondo Avenue, on Sunday, Aug. 18.

Guided tours through the facility will be held from noon until 4 p.m., and a pictorial display will show other Water Department facilities, according to Clyde N. Moore, general manager.

Equipment and materials necessary to operate the municipal water utility also will be on display, Moore said.

"We are very proud of the department's Class I rating and of its position among the top-rated water utilities in the nation," said James Munholland, president of the Water Commission.

"The open house will provide our customers the opportunity of viewing our treatment plant and control center and of gaining an insight into the operation of their water utility," Munholland said.

Commissioners also adopted a resolution declaring Aug. 11-18 Better Water for People Week. The observance is sponsored nationally by the American Water Works Association.

Munholland pointed out that the Long Beach Water Department delivers an average of 56.8 million gallons of water daily to 83,600 customers. Its annual delivery last year was 20.75 billion gallons of water to a population of 361,000 persons, or an average of 158 gallons per day per person, Munholland said.

A 'Mudders' Day' celebration

Dirty players were the rule, rather than the exception Friday when the Lakewood YMCA, 5425 Centralia Ave., sponsored its third annual Mud Bowl Fiesta. Boys 6 to 12 years of age were divided into tug-of-war teams over a carefully fashioned mudhole — and it doesn't take an over-active imagination to figure out what happened to the losers. The counselors, who set up the goopy mess, got theirs from the losers, too. But all pronounced the exercise good, clean fun.

War protester, 63, jailed for not paying tax

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Followed by more than 100 admiring supporters, 63-year-old Martha Tranquilli surrendered to U.S. marshals Friday and began a nine-month prison term for refusing to pay taxes which went to the Indochina war.

Her graying hair in braids and her three sons at her side, Ms. Tranquilli posed for pictures, shouted "Peace" to her fans and then walked through the federal courthouse doors.

In the years 1971 and 1972, Ms. Tranquilli did not pay the part of her federal income taxes which she said went to support the war. She estimated the amount at about $1,000.

"I WON'T pay for killing," she explained.

She was convicted of tax evasion in Greenville, Miss., last year. Her court appeals were exhausted in June when the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the case. Notice arrived last week for her to begin her sentence.

"I feel fine," she said outside the courtroom, where friends and admirers sang melodies familiar to the antiwar movement. "But I feel like I'm watching it happen to someone else, not me."

Ms. Tranquilli said she became an activist for peace after the United States dropped atomic bombs on Japan. "I've never forgiven the country for that," she said.

BY 1969 she felt the antiwar movement was not being heard, "so I wrote to President Nixon and told him if the war didn't end by December I would be forced to withhold the monies that went to the Pentagon to support the war."

MORAL SUPPORT on her way to prison is offered war protester Martha Tranquilli, left front, by more than 100 well-wishers as she leaves State Capitol.

Two strikes settled

Labor unrest spreading

United Press International

Striking cement truck drivers in the Chicago area Friday ended a nine-week strike which idled an estimated 200,000 workers, and officials of the United Mine Workers ordered an end to a wildcat strike by miners which swept western Indiana's coal fields.

A wildcat strike by telephone workers spread through Michigan.

CIVIL engineers, architects and draftsmen announced plans to strike the Long Island Rail Road Monday.

General Motors announced further strike-caused layoffs.

Striking teamsters voted by a 3-to-1 ratio to accept a new contract with the Northern Illinois Ready Mix and Materials Association, ending a strike which had crippled highway and building construction in seven northern Illinois counties and snarled traffic on highways in the metropolitan area.

MOST OF the truckers and thousands of other workers who boycotted construction sites or were laid off during the strike were expected to return to work Monday.

United Mine Workers District 11 President Robert Edney ordered dissident Hoosier coal miners back to work by midnight.

Miners launched a wildcat walkout Wednesday in protest to strip mining legislation before Congress. The proposed legislation, the miners feel, is too strict and could shut down the industry. By Friday, 3,800 miners were off their jobs at 20 mines.

A WALKOUT by Communications Workers of America spread across Michigan, causing a slowdown of telephone services, but the slowdown was not considered serious. Pickets marched in front of Bell system telephone offices in many parts of the state.

A spokesman for the Long Island Rail Road said the carrier was expecting a strike Monday but said the action by members of the American Railways and Airline Supervisors' Association would have no immediate effect on railroad operations.

A union official said he hoped other unions would refuse to cross picket lines and help shut down the railroad, which carries 80,000 commuters and 80,000 single fare riders weekly.

SOME 750,000 telephone workers across the nation worked under day-to-day contract extensions while Bell System and union officials tried informally to find ways to avoid a nationwide phone strike.

Critical contract talks that could affect about 150,000 workers throughout the aerospace industry opened in Burbank between Lockheed-California Co. and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

Jerry Wurf, president of the fast-growing American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, predicted a July of discontent in labor ranks would be followed by "a long, hot August and September" as public workers battle to protect themselves against "fantastic inflation" and teacher strikes erupt with the start of the new school year.

"PUBLIC employees are the vanguard for what ... is becoming an aroused labor movement that is no longer willing to subsidize the nation through wage restraints and sacrifice," he said.

A week of labor unrest has seen as many as 230, 000 workers in private industry and tens of thousands of public employees on strike.

Oakland transit strike clash

Associated Press

Hundreds of striking bus drivers invaded the AC Transit District headquarters in Oakland Friday and smashed glass office doors, but left after both sides agreed to resume negotiations Monday.

No injuries or arrests were reported.

The invasion of the Latham Square building followed a mass rally by many of the 1,656 striking drivers and their families and a 12-block march from the Oakland Auditorium.

"WE GOT what we came for," said Ed Cordeiro, president of the striking Amalgamated Transit Union's Division 192.

He told newsmen he meant the agreement of general manager Alan L. Bingham to participate in future bargaining on demands for higher pay.

The 20-day strike has forced 200,000 bus commuters to turn to autos to get to and from work. The result has been an hours-long clogging of freeways and the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

The demonstration occurred as Northern California carpenters ended their month-old strike and began returning to heavy construction sites. A separate strike by bus drivers at the San Francisco International Airport dragged on.

The tumultuous invasion of the AC Transit District third floor headquarters calmed when Bingham met with Cordeiro and Dick Groulx, Alameda County Central Labor Council leader, for talks behind closed doors.

Cordeiro and union bargainers have protested that top management was not represented on the district's bargaining team.

AFTER his talks with Cordeiro and Groulx, Bingham said in a state-

Highway user tax loss was overestimated

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's cities and counties suffered less loss of revenue from highway users taxes than was predicted during the height of the energy crisis, state Controller Houston Flournoy said Friday.

"The 9.1 per cent drop that was expected for 1973-74 turned out to be only 7.6 per cent," Flournoy said.

ment he had "agreed to participate directly with our management team in caucuses."

"As a result of this meeting I am encouraged that the union will sit down with their sleeves rolled up to get this dispute settled," Bingham said.

"I think things will speed up tremendously. We are going to consider each issue separately," said Cordeiro.

The surge into the district headquarters erupted quickly when about 1,000 demonstrators had assembled on sidewalks of 16th Street near Telegraph Avenue after the 12-block march from the union's auditorium rally.

More than a dozen uniformed Oakland police officers were deployed outside the building, but they could not stem the demonstrator rush into the lobby and up the stairs to the district office.

The placard-carrying demonstrators jammed like sardines outside the district's general office doors. The glass panels were shattered and spilled inward over two security guards.

CARPENTERS started back to work Friday under an agreement giving them higher pay and ending a 32-day strike which had stopped $1 billion in Northern California construction.

Associated General Contractors said its members will meet in Oakland next Wednesday for a ratification vote. But John A. Rebeiro, head of the Northern California Carpenters Council, said no union vote would be needed. He said work would be in full swing at all construction sites by Monday.

Rebeiro said agreement calls for a $1 hourly increase immediately to $9.75. An additional 25 cent increase will achieve a $10 hourly wage. An

Episcopalians defy church law Bishops to ordain 11 women

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK — Three Episcopal bishops disclosed on Friday plans to ordain 11 women as priests in defiance of the church's laws and practice.

The bishops said they had decided on the step out of their sense of "obedience to the Lordship of Christ" and in solidarity with all persons struggling "for freedom, for liberation, for dignity."

It would be the first time in the church's history for women to be ordained into its priesthood. The denomination, the American wing of the Church of England, dates from the nation's origins.

THE irregular ceremony was scheduled for July 29 in the Episcopal Church of the Advocate in Philadelphia.

Those participating — the women, the bishops and other clergy — inevitably will be risking possible ecclesiastical discipline.

The question of allowing women in the Episcopal priesthood has been keenly debated for more than a decade, but proposals for the change have been narrowly rejected by the last two triennial governing conventions.

The three bishops planning to bypass the restriction are all retired from geographical jurisdictions — but still hold the power to ordain.

They are Bishop Robert L. Dewitt, of Philadelphia, resigned as bishop of the diocese but now the publisher there of an independent Episcopal periodical; Bishop Daniel Corrigan, retired, now of Denver, Colo., and Bishop Edward Randolph Welles of Manset, Maine, retired bishop of West Missouri.

ONE OF the women scheduled to be ordained, Katrina Swanson, of Leawood, Kan., is the daughter of Bishop Welles, known as a high-church adherent of Anglican ritual decorum.

The plans drew an immediate word of sympathetic nonapproval from Bishop Lyman Ogilby of Philadelphia, where the service is scheduled.

Saying he himself favors admission of women to the priesthood, he said he supported the "Christian consciences of the persons projecting this ordination," but after prayerful consideration, would not participate.

"I do not believe this is the way God would have me proceed with this cause at this time," he said, adding that the affair does not have his approval. However, he said in a letter to diocesan clergy:

"I am persuaded this projected ordination will be theologically valid, though irregular in terms of the current ecclesiastical polity and structures of the Episcopal church."

The presiding bishop of the 3.1-million-member church, John Maury Allin, who assumed the office only last June, was away on vacation, and could not be reached for comment.

However, the affair seemed bound to cause sharp repercussions.

Asks tougher laws

Nader cites white-collar crime

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said Friday that a wave of white-collar crime — from Watergate to stock frauds — is sweeping the country and tough new laws are needed to stop it.

He said law enforcement agencies and the media focus more attention on bank robberies and other street crimes although white-collar criminals reportedly seized six times more money in 1973 than did bank robbers.

Nader's charges were contained in a report on white-collar crime by his organization, Public Citizen, which surveyed 200 criminal cases during 1973 and 1974 involving government and corporate officials, lawyers and judges, and including a number of Watergate-related cases.

The report was presented in testimony before a Senate criminal-law subcommittee which is considering legislation to reform the federal criminal code.

"THE EPIDEMIC scope of violations indicates that there is a corporate crime wave sweeping the country," Nader said.

Since 1969, he said, bank robberies have increased less than 12 percent while frauds and embezzlements have increased 31.3 percent.

"Some 30 per cent of them (white-collar crimes) are conservatively estimated to cost the victims $4 billion, four times the national loss from larceny, burglary and theft, including auto theft," he said.

Nader's report found that penalties for street criminals were usually harsher than those for white-collar criminals.

Nader called for stricter penalties for white-collar crimes, including heavier fines on corporations violating environmental or consumer-protection laws.

Officer pleads innocent

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A policeman accused of rigging evidence against at least six persons in various cases pleaded innocent Friday.

Herman Wiggins, 33, who was dismissed from the force last month, entered the pleas in superior court and was to appear for trial Sept. 10.

Thursday, four persons filed claims against the city for $4.2 million in connection with the cases. Wiggins was indicted by the county grand jury

Wednesday on five counts of perjury and eight of falsifying evidence. Since Wiggins' arrest last month, robbery charges have been dropped against four persons and two juveniles have been released from custody.

The suits were filed by Herman L. Lavender, 22, who asked for $4 million; Major Godwin, 21, $100,000; and the two juveniles, $50,000 each.

Lavender and Godwin were accused of robbing a liquor store and theater.

Investigators later said they were linked to the holdups by fingerprints, but an investigation indicated Wiggins had lifted the prints from another case.

The juveniles had been held for seven months on robbery and burglary charges in cases investigated by Wiggins.

Oops. As a dozen readers have already informed us, the article here last Saturday on the North American Christian Convention in Anaheim mistakenly placed the event as starting last Tuesday, when it actually begins NEXT Tuesday, July 23.

The mistake was not the doing of Bob Andrew, who wrote the article. He had the date correct as July 23-26. The busy religion editor, myself, hurriedly glanced at the calendar, saw that July 23 was Tuesday, and changed the story to read "Tuesday through Friday." This is correct newspaper practice for upcoming events — except that I was looking at the wrong week on the calendar!

Anyhow, as Bob related, it's at the Anaheim Convention Center, with daily

THE PASTOR of Trinity Southern Baptist Church of Downey, Rev. John S. Ashcraft, writes to comment on the interview with Dr. George Downing of the American Baptist Churches.

"It was good to hear Dr. Downing explain the American Baptist position," he says. "I personally have been pastor of congregations cooperating with Southern Baptist Conventions since 1943. Not once has a Convention interfered with a local congregation's freedom where I was pastor. We are free.

Widespread rumors about an end to tax exemptions on church donations are incorrect. There are no such bills now being considered by Congress.

"The injection of ordaining women (Downing said American Baptists did and Southern Baptists didn't) was made because churches cooperating with Southern Baptist Conventions have ordained women. We do not as a convention ordain anyone. A local church calls a presbytery and they ordain. This was discussed recently at Dallas, but the thrust of discussion was convention approval by her agencies of ordained women. Possibly the freedom of a local Baptist church to act is not understood by others."

NORTH LONG BEACH Church of Christ, at 118 E. Artesia Blvd., is working on an area-wide young people's singing festival for next Sunday, July 28, 7:45 p.m., with refreshments afterward and all invited.

AS AN OUTFALL of the doctrinal rift in the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, the Lutheran Women's Caucus announces it is sponsoring a scholarship fund to encourage women to study theology at "Seminex," the seminary in exile at St. Louis.

"No doctrinal thou-shalt-nots prevent women from studying God's Word," says spokeswoman Janet Larson, "but in practice, the Missouri Synod has not been particularly enthusiastic about women students at its seminaries. It's time to change that picture."

Citing Seminex as promising a "refreshing departure from past patterns of subtle discrimination," she said the Women's Caucus "wants to help the church say to women, as Jesus said to Mary of Bethany, that the choice of theological study 'shall not be taken away' from them."

There have been a few women seminary students in the Synod over the years, but policy forbids the ordination of women to the pastoral ministry. The other two major American Lutheran bodies both permit ordination of women, though the actuality is still in the "loken" stage.

Which is all not to say that the Missouri Synod has been impervious to the rising consciousness about the right of women to utilize their God-given talents in all areas of life in which they are qualified. The 1973 convention affirmed the concept of sexual equality in several resolutions, including one which raised the status of woman teachers to theological equality.

Lausanne —'Praise the Lord'

(ED. NOTE: This special report from Lausanne written Tuesday night conveys some of the flavor of the International Congress on World Evangelization, and a digest of the keynote address by Billy Graham.)

LAUSANNE, Switzerland — Evangelical Christian leaders from every corner of the globe are converging on the Palais de Beaulieu. They're white, black, yellow and brown; they're professional educators, theologians, ministers, evangelists, missionaries, Bible translators and youth. Their ranks include proportionate numbers of young and old, women and men.

They are here to attend the historic International Congress on World Evangelization through July 25. It is the largest gathering of evangelical Christians ever assembled. Excitement mounts as each busload of passengers arrive from the Geneva airport.

The scene is unlike any other international gathering. They call one another "Brother" and embrace often; their smiles encourage conversation. They wait patiently on long registration lines, and their talk is spiced with hallelujahs, praise the Lord and references to the Holy Spirit.

In addition to the 2,700 invited participants to the congress, there are more than 400 official observers, more than 300 accredited media personnel and a few hundred other guests. By the time Dr. Billy Graham, as honorary chairman, addressed the first plenary session more than 4,500 were in attendance.

Graham told the participants that in these days of worldwide inflation and impending famine, God is giving Christians an opportunity — perhaps a last chance — for worldwide witness. "We here at this congress have an unparalleled opportunity as the world may be standing at the brink of Armageddon," he said. He warned the congress participants that the greatest danger to their task of evangelization comes not from without, but from within missionary and evangelistic agencies.

"Since the strong missionary movements of the 19th century, the world church has floundered because it has lost the authority of the Gospel message, become preoccupied with social and political problems, as well as with organizational unity," said the evangelist. Graham sees a desperate need for the changeless Gospel to be related to the changing world. "The hour is late," he warned, "and now is the time for evangelicals to move ahead and provide the leadership that has so sorely been missed by Christians around the world."

He sounded an unusual note of self-criticism, indicating that he has erred in a tendency to equate Christianity with Americanism.

"To identify the Gospel with any one particular political program or culture has been my own danger," he said. Graham has been criticized by some church leaders who accused him of being too close to the White House, and too uncritical of the administration in such matters as Vietnam and Watergate.

The congress participants, from more than 150 nations, belong to such diverse denominations as the Southern Baptists, Free Methodists, Church of England, Brethren Assemblies, Church of South India, Anglican, Reformed Presbyterian and many others. They are representing themselves only and not their denominations. Nevertheless, the leadership of these religious leaders will influence thousands of Christians around the globe.

In addition to taking part in strategy and theology sessions, each participant will also attend demonstrations of evangelistic methods. The concept behind these sessions is to furnish illustrations of effective methods which could be duplicated, with cultural adaptations, in each person's home situation.

No material can be considered for publication in the Saturday religion pages if we do not have it by Thursday noon.

thought as they did, that it was the right way to worship."

is not the author of confusion..."

Southern Baptists, the nation's largest Protestant denomination, may be moving toward coexistence with members who practice speaking in tongues (glossolalia), a church educator believes. But other Baptist theologians, and Long Beach area pastors queried by this newspaper, disagree, and foresee no change in the Baptist position, which views tongues speaking today as due to a misreading of the Bible, and being incompatible with church life.

A Baptist Press article reprinted in some of the state papers tells of a conference in Richmond attended by pastors and national officials, in which the growing phenomenon was part of the agenda.

WATSON MILLS, professor at Averett College, a Baptist school in Virginia, and an authority on the charismatic movement, though not himself a participant, told the conference that no major denomination today is without a tongues-speaking cell, and that the practice is viewed as less bizarre than it was formerly.

"As the movement has enlarged," Mills said, "the participants have become less confronting. We are moving toward a detente, an era of good will. Those writing are less defensive and less dogmatic on both sides."

Most of the pastors present, the Baptist Press reports, indicated they had members who spoke in tongues. They did not oppose the practice as long as it did not foster disunity.

The conference dialogue included testimony by a Baptist layman, a deacon and electrical engineer, who said his tongues experience occurred two weeks after a recent conversion (he had, however, been a church member since childhood.)

Asked if he witnessed to other church members about his tongues speaking, the layman replied: "At first I wanted to run up and grab others to tell them what had happened to me, but not now" (since he met some opposition from members.) "The people at the church know my wife and I are active in the movement, so we

A DIFFERENT view was presented by William Lumpkin, a Richmond pastor and a former professor of church history, who spoke on "The Charismatic Movement: A Threat or a Challenge."

He saw the movement as often a threat to the peace and mission of the church, especially when attitudes of superiority are expressed by charismatics who feel they have received vital gifts denied to others.

More basically, Lumpkin said charismatics threaten to reverse the theological order which places Christ first, by primarily glorifying the Holy Spirit, who actually functions to glorify Christ, he said.

The account of speaking in tongues in the New Testament is seen by Lumpkin as meant to authenticate the apostles as messengers of God at the time. The phenomenon is no longer meaningful, he held.

Used today, it can be seen as a form of escapism and an attempt to avoid the practical work of the church, he added.

The movement challenges Southern Baptists, and others, he continued, to more dynamic participation in their churches. Christians are challenged, he said, to study scripture and not to misinterpret Christian experience.

"Experience must not dictate doctrine," Lumpkin said. "The Bible is the norm of our faith and practice." The Christian, he added, must not have an "experience" and read back into scripture a meaning for that experience.

IN A PHONE chat this week, Dr. Levi Price, pastor of Narbonne Avenue Baptist Church of Long Beach, and a leader in the state's Southern Baptist Convention, said his church has lost some people because they had gone to tongues.

"I don't stand in judgment," he emphasized. "We Baptists don't dictate to private lives, what a person does in his private life we do not control, that's between him and his God. But public worship is another matter. In the case of those who left, we felt, and they felt, that they would be more comfortable where others

Asked the scriptural basis for his position, Price replied: "Basically, our position is that in the New Testament account, they spoke in KNOWN tongues, different languages, their own, recognized by some individuals. It wasn't gobbledygook, by which I mean no offense."

"No doubt it's a problem in the church, Paul in the 14th chapter of First Corinthians was not praising it, as some think. I would say that the Baptist position on this has not changed, and I don't expect it to change."

THE OFT-QUOTED section of Acts referring to the happenings at Pentecost was translated into English by the scholars of the King James Version as follows: "And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance."

This is essentially the way British scholars again put it in the recent New English Bible (Oxford), saying "other tongues." However, in the best-selling Living Bible, a paraphrase by the American Kenneth Taylor, its possible meaning is changed: "And everyone present was filled with the Holy Spirit and began speaking in languages they didn't know." (our emphasis.)

In the chapter of First Corinthians referred to by Dr. Price, Paul compares the gift of tongues to prophesying (testifying and explaining) in a very unfavorable light. "He that speaketh in an unknown tongue edifieth himself; but he that prophesieth edifieth the church."

Paul seems clearly enough to be saying that speaking in tongues could be a personal gift indeed, but let's keep it that way, for among others it is confusing and worthless. In the church, Paul said, "I had rather speak five words with my understanding than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue."

He adds that if any man speak in an unknown tongue among other people, he should have someone else interpret what he is saying. "But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church; and let him speak to himself, and to God." Paul also says, "For God

ON ITS FACE, this would seem to support Price's position of not judging the individual who speaks in tongues, but keeping the practice out of church life.

Pentecostal-charismatics stress the sections of this chapter in which Paul seems to be saying that he himself speaks "in tongues, and that it may be a legitimate sign to unbelievers in some situations. Some Pentecostal churches, notably the large Assemblies of God, have toned down emphasis on tongues, calling it just one of the gifts of the Spirit, and a secondary one, not essential to all. However, charismatics in "mainline" churches, more recent converts, often tend to be aggressively evangelistic about their experience.

At First Southern Baptist of Long Beach, Rev. Dale Aycock said tongues speaking is not a problem.

"We've lost four people in seven years because of it, but we have gained many times that in reverse, that is, people who came to us from a Pentecostal-type background who preferred our worship and understanding of the Bible."

"I'll agree that if an individual feels this is for him, I wouldn't condemn him," Aycock added. "In our church we just do not, and will not, get into it. It always causes division rather than unity."

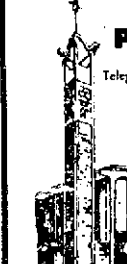

Dr. Paul Brooks Leath, pastor of the large Long Beach Truett Memorial Southern Baptist Church, and a vigorous preacher against tongues speaking, in a phone conversation said: "We have not lost any believers because of this. If we have, I don't know about it! I would say it is not a problem at Truett, I have spoken strongly in explanation of the phenomenon, and this may have helped. We do not condone or encourage speaking in tongues. The section in Acts has been misread, as well as the chapter of First Corinthians. Speaking in tongues today is not scriptural and does not belong in our church."

The detente spoken of in the Baptist Press article would seem to be at least premature in the ranks of the Southern Baptists.

WARDS of Long Beach sends along the following, which he found in one of his father's old books, and says "Since I am going on 88, I know this article from an English paper to be 95 to 100 years old." Here 'tis:

"Some go to church just for a walk; Some to stare, and laugh, and talk; Some go there to meet a friend; Some their idle time to spend; Some for general observation; Some for private speculation; Some to seek or find a lover; Some a courtship to discover; Some go there to use their eyes, And newest fashions criticise.

'Living Water Festival' set

Walnut Avenue Baptist Church, 1601 E. Third St., will conduct a "Living Water Festival" Sunday through Wednesday, at 7 p.m. nightly. Pastor Ken Bolinger invites everyone to the evangelistic activities.

An evangelism team sponsored by the Southern Baptist General Convention of California will assist Joe Caldwell, 26, of Fort Worth, Tex., will preach. Music will be directed by Gary Kauffman, 18, of Marysville. Conducting fellowship and rap sessions will be Peggy Caldwell, wife of the evangelist, and others. There will be child care for those under 4.

Form group for S. Korea rights

A group of 35 leading American scholars, church leaders and eminent Koreans in residence in the U.S. have formed a Committee for Human Rights in Korea.

Through it they are sharing increasing concern with escalating violations of civil and human rights in Korea. Throughout the past week, many have been sentenced to death and life imprisonment for criticizing the dictatorial rule of President Chung Hee Park, including clergymen.

Preus asks Synod benefits for foes

Dr. J.A.O. Preus, president of The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, has recommended to the board of managers of Concordia Plans that an option be made to allow professors at Seminex and former staff members of the LCMS Board for Missions to continue their participation in the Concordia Welfare Plan on an individual basis for up to three years.

Concordia Plans provides retirement, survivor and welfare benefits to pastors, teachers and other qualified workers of the LCMS and their beneficiaries.

"I am certain that one day, and, God willing, very soon, we will as a Synod be one again," Preus said. "In the meantime, those who are now with Seminex or have resigned from the missions staff should along with their families have the benefits and protection that Concordia Plans offer."

"The offerings have really fallen off since the penny shortage."

Lutheran meet (LCA) asks U.S. 'return to integrity'

The Lutheran Church in America, the nation's largest Lutheran denomination with 3.1 million members, concluded its eight-day convention in Baltimore last week by reelecting Rev. Dr. Robert J. Marshall, 55, to another four year term as president.

A resolution on the state of the nation was adopted, saying that the LCA "expresses its love for America and its concern over the deterioration of integrity at all levels of government which contributes to the erosion of moral standards." Marshall was asked to "communicate this concern to the President of the United States."

Noting that the next meeting would come in 1976 during the bicentenary observance, the resolution added "we will be made vividly aware of the heritage of our nation" and quoted the LCA's committee on the bicentenary which said "We hope for the recovery of a true understanding of 'this nation under God' in terms of the continuing purification of Divine Judgment that calls us away from our past sins and into a future of fuller justice and community."

CBS News White House correspondent Dan Rather, a layman in the church, told the 679 delegates "Americans are admired around the world for their mastery of technology in relieving man's suffering."

DR. MARSHALL Four More Years

proposals for sharing in denominational planning. Most were disappointed when the convention refused to go on record in favor of amnesty for Vietnam war evaders. All such resolutions were referred to the Division for Mission in North America after delegates called it a "complex problem."

Seventeen women were among 79 persons elected to the Executive Council, bringing the total to 24.

A "Statement of Concern" was adopted over "the widening schism" in the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. After coming down on the side of the moderates by expressing solidarity with "our Lutheran brothers and sisters everywhere who join in evangelical testimony that God's Word shall not be bound," the delegates noted "our united witness to God's word in the whole world is much weakened by this bitter conflict...we pray for healing."

The LCA was organized in 1962 by a consolidation of the American Evangelical, Augustana Evangelical, Finnish Evangelical and United Lutheran Churches.

WHAT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CAN DO FOR A FAMILY.
It can bring an understanding of God's closeness and care, helping each one in the family in everything he does.
It can develop a deep love for the Bible, and joyful obedience to God's law.
It can teach every member, and the family together, to heal problems in the way Jesus showed.
How can Christian Science do all this? Through Sunday School classes that strengthen children. Through Sunday services that inspire parents. Through Wednesday testimony meetings where personal accounts of healing are shared. Through Reading Rooms where truths are pondered in quiet.
Won't you invite Christian Science into your family's life?

Gonsalves cites apathy of disgust

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

The pre-Watergate apathy of complacency, satisfaction and boredom has given way to an apathy of disgust and mistrust, Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-Cerritos, told the Third Friday Forum Friday at Lakewood Country Club.

Candidates and officeholders who respond with candor and honesty can be responsible for "better government than ever," he said. "But they should not promise the moon; they should promise only what is realistic."

Gonsalves suggested the need for a kind of "assessment freeze" for homeowners to parallel the tax-free status this society accords food and medicine because "it is now nearly impossible to buy a home."

The assemblyman, chairman of the Revenue and Taxation Committee, assigned blame for past school bond vote failures in low-turnout elections to citizen reaction to Sacramento's failure to make good on perennial, but undelivered, promises to have the state assume a 50 per cent responsibility for school finance.

Legislation of late 1972 (Senate Bill 90) resulted in "more money being pumped into local school districts" than ever before. It also raised homeowner tax exemption from $750 to $1,750 and gave renter relief too. But all those benefits "will go down the tubes," Gonsalves said if the Legislature does not give recognition to shelter on bases similar to exemptions now given food and medicine.

One-year residency for jurors upheld

By BERNARD HURWITZ

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Supreme Court Friday upheld the constitutionality of the state's one-year juror residency requirement.

It rejected a claim that the requirement violates a criminal defendant's right to trial by an impartial jury as well as the equal protection rights of new residents.

Justice William Clark wrote the 4-to-3 majority opinion while Justice Stanley Mosk wrote the dissent.

THE San Diego Superior Court had held the residency requirement to be unconstitutional in a criminal proceeding.

It directed San Diego Jury Commissioner, Lawrence Adams, to provide a jury panel from which no jurors were excluded on residency grounds other than the 30-day minimum residence requirement qualifying a person to vote.

The defendant, Irving Beale, was acquitted but the court's order applied to all future civil and criminal cases. The jury commissioner then sought an order setting aside the judge's ruling.

The high court said the residency requirement does not violate the constitutional rule that jury selection must not exclude various classes of citizens from jury service.

"BEFORE such an exclusion may be held improper, there must be a common thread running through the excluded group — a basic similarity of attitudes, ideas, or experience among its members so that the exclusion events injuries from reflecting a gross section of the community," said the court.

It said the group excluded by the one-year requirement cuts across economic and social lines and doesn't have this common interest.

Constitutionality of Prop. 9 doubted

SACRAMENTO (AP) — There may be serious doubt about the constitutionality of Prop. 9, the political reform initiative overwhelmingly approved by voters June 4, the legislative counsel says.

A 21-page opinion circulating among the state's lawmakers says at least six of the major sections of the 20,000-word initiative are of "questionable" constitutionality.

The opinion, which is advice to the lawmakers and does not have the force of law — said one possible problem is that the State Constitution prohibits ballot initiatives covering more than one subject. The opinion said there are grave doubts whether Prop. 9 — titled the Political Reform Act of 1974 — covers only one specific topic.

THE OPINION also said the campaign-spending limits contained in the initiative may unfairly limit the free expression of speech.

Most of the provisions of the initiative go into effect next Jan. 1. These include the establishment of a Fair Campaign Practices Commission, campaign-spending limits, prohibition of campaign contributions by lobbyists and limits on lobbyists' expenditures on state officials.

The legislative counsel's office is employed by the State Legislature.

Firemen held more heart attack prone

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Firemen get lots of exercise and keep their weight down and their cholesterol low but they may be greater heart attack risks than fat insurance underwriters, doctors say.

"Stress really makes the difference," said Dr. Victor P. Bonfilio, the San Francisco Fire Department physician.

He said firemen have an abnormally high rate of heart disease and die of it sooner than most people.

"These guys are amazing," Bonfilio said in a recent interview. "Their adrenalin is always right there and ready to flow. Their cardiovascular system is under constant stress, even while they're just waiting, and over long periods of time."

"I look at a fireman who's 48 years old and he looks a lot older."

Bonfilio agrees with a recent study by a University of California research team which compared 30 Los Angeles city firemen with 22 insurance underwriters. All participants were between 40 and 50.

The study, reported in Medical World News magazine, showed that the insurance men exceeded the firemen in heart rate, even though they wore faster, had higher cholesterol levels and more high blood pressure.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Sees you well on your way into a successful campaign. Increased responsibility proves feasible - your viewpoint broadens, likewise your circle of business and personal contacts. Earning power eventually increases as well. Today's natives usually rise sensibly from rather unpretentious beginnings, merit every advance as they go.

Aries (March 21-April 19): There are many levels of expense - you can have a great time doing some of the less pretentious things and still find all the company you'd like.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Relax, don't burden the day with material considerations. You've got to put in considerable thought yet before your new contacts will be ready.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Being neat and tidy pays high dividends. Being out and gone early lands you into unaccustomed and interesting situations, much fun. Get home early.

Cancer (June 21-July 20): No matter how well you compete, there's always someone somewhere who does things more lavishly. It's enough that you achieve dignity, simplicity.

Leo (July 21-Aug. 22): Although it's Sunday and you have its special routines to follow, stir yourself and begin setting up your coming week. There's serious work to do.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Keep physical activities to a moderate level, seek a middle-of-the-road course. Time isn't running out fast - just move more promptly.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can very well go along with the preferences of your family and community for a quiet Sunday of personal satisfaction. Celebrate on general principles.

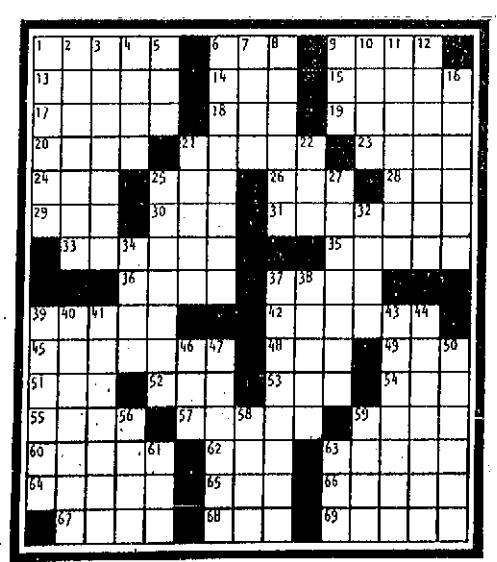

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Naturally, you're impatient, but take the time to savor every golden moment of this simple day of self-fulfillment. Express your faith.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): There's enough to do to keep several people actively busy. Decide from the start just what you will enjoy and concentrate on doing that well.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make amends where you can, even where you may have been correct. On-going plans are facilitated, may run ahead of schedule - be alert for possible changes.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Overstate your theory and you've got minor problems. Better listen before you proceed, there's another side to the story, and much good news to sustain you.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): For the maximum benefit, stick with what you know and near home base, cultivating relationships, new contacts. Entertaining come naturally.

Automakers' promotional budgets left untouched

DETROIT (AP) — Car sales may be down this year, but the amount of money U.S. automakers are spending to promote their products is as high as ever.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors say their spending for media advertising and sales promotion activities is running the same or even higher than last year, when they sold a record number of cars.

The companies don't disclose dollar-and-cents figures, but independent sources estimate the four automakers combined will spend more than $725-million for promotion this year.

That's nearly as much money as the city of Detroit is spending during the current fiscal year.

Because of the energy situation and general inflation, the automakers had a disastrous first quarter for sales and profits. U.S. car sales were off more than 27 per cent from last year and profits fell sharply, ranging from a 58 per cent decline at AMC to a 98 per cent drop at Chrysler.

TO COMPENSATE, automakers trimmed costs in other areas such as labor layoffs and material savings campaigns, but promotional budgets have been left untouched.

Industry estimates put GM's total promotional spending budget this year at about $340 million, or nearly three times the auto giant's first quarter earnings.

GM would not confirm the figure. "We just don't talk about those things," one spokesman said.

But the company conceded 1974 spending is very similar to last year.

GM Chairman Richard Gerstenberg told stockholders last May the company spent $326 million worldwide for promotion in 1973. That figure included $243 million spent in the United States, of which about $154 million went for television, radio, newspaper and magazine advertising.

Industry sources say GM, with sales off nearly 30 per cent from last year, has more than quadrupled its spending this year for dealer sales incentive contests to boost sales. The contests, which provide dealers with prizes or cash rebates for meeting sales quotas, is costing GM as much as $100 million, by some estimates.

INDUSTRY estimates of promotional spending at Ford range up to $250 million worldwide, about the same as last year, when sales were running 20 per cent ahead of their current pace.

Ford also would not discuss its spending, although one company official said the estimate is a "ballpark figure that is inaccurate in our opinion."

The last time Board Chairman Henry Ford II disclosed the company's promotional spending budget was in 1972, when he said worldwide advertising and promotion in 1971 ran to $221 million.

Chrysler, the nation's No. 3 automaker, is said to be spending around $110 million this year, 75 per cent of which goes toward direct media advertising.

Although Chrysler sales are down about 20 per cent, company spokesmen say this year's promotional spending is "identical with last year."

AMERICAN Motors, with sales down only two per cent from 1973, is the only automaker to acknowledge it is spending more money on promotion this year. Industry estimates put the total at about $30 million, but company officials say that figure is on the low side.

If spending hasn't changed much from last year, the theme the companies are emphasizing in their ads has.

When fears of fuel shortages sent sales of big, gas-burning cars plummeting, the companies responded with ads touting their small car lines.

GM's push into the small car market was exemplified by its Pontiac ads which emphasized "the great little car" theme for its compact car

The company also promoted its large cars this spring in ads which discussed the conveniences of big, roomy cars for large families.

"WE BASE our advertising on highlighting all the products and conveniences available to our customers, whether (the cars) are small, full-size or mid-size. We don't leave anything out," a GM spokesman said.

Ford has invested heavily this spring and summer in its "I didn't know that!" campaign promoting its entire line of small cars.

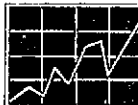

Chrysler also has been pushing its compact cars — the firm has no subcompact on the market — and placing more emphasis on promotions for dealer associations, a company spokesman said.

Ford has said it would support uniform standards developed by the FTC for the companies to follow in reporting mileage figures. AMC, however, says it is opposed to promotion of specific mileage ratings by the firms.

"Our opinion is the consumer is not really capable of interpreting all the qualifications made in mileage ads," Freeman said. "The consumer is becoming confused because of the myriad of claims by the manufacturers."

Miss Universe on the late show

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

Some women's libbers may sneer at beauty pageants, but such shows still stack up as unusually popular television fare.

It is estimated, for example, that about 350 million persons in 27 countries will view the final ceremonies of the 23rd annual Miss Universe Beauty Pageant in Manila, which you can tune in tonight from 10 to midnight on CBS (Channel 2).

And my guess would be that more females than males will be viewing the competition, even though some of the latter no doubt would rather leer than sneer.

In case you are among those who watch the show, you might be interested to know that you'll be seeing something tonight that won't take place until Sunday.

Sunday, Manila time, that is. The pageant telecast will take place from 10 a.m. until noon Sunday in Manila so that it can air live in the eastern United States via satellite from 10 to midnight this evening. We'll get it on delayed tape out here.

This will mark the first time the pageant has ever been held in the morning and the first time it has been held in the Philip-pires. And how many of you remember the years it was held in Long Beach?

Helen O'Connell will be hostess and Bob Barker master of ceremonies for the show in the new Folk Arts Center, a huge amphitheater constructed especially for the spectacle on Manila Bay.

NEW ADVANCES in the diagnosis, prevention and treatment of heart attacks will be examined in a one-hour TV special on Channel 4 at 10 Sunday night.

Dr. Michael DeBakey of Methodist Hospital in Houston is among the heart specialists across the country interviewed on the program by producer-reporter Paul Cunningham. Title of the special is "NBC News Presents: Heart Attack."

LINDA BLAIR, 14, who received an Oscar nomination for her role as the young girl possessed by the devil in the movie "The Exorcist," will make her TV dramatic debut in "Born Innocent," a "World Premiere" TV movie to be shown on NBC in the 1974-75 season.

She will star as a first-time offender caught up in the juvenile detention system of a good-sized city. Production got under way Friday in Albuquerque, N.M.

THE CARPENTERS — Karen and Richard — have been signed to guest star on Perry Como's fall TV special, "Perry Como's 'Summer of 74.'" It has been set to air on Thursday night, Sept. 12, on CBS.

The show will be the first of six specials Como has signed to do for General Telephone and Electronics on CBS in the 1974-75 season.

"KOJAK" is back on top of the national Nielsen ratings for the week that ended July 14. After four weeks in the No. 1 spot, it had been replaced by "Medical Center" in the week ending July 7.

Grid rivals aren't talkin' over progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for the striking National Football League players' union and the 26 club owners resumed talks in the presence of federal mediators Friday, but little was said about what went on behind the closed doors.

Federal mediator James Searce and his assistant, Louis W. Sabatino, a former player with Atlanta and Cleveland, walked past newsmen, ignoring questions about the negotiating session.

It was the first meeting since last Friday and only the second since the players went on strike July 1.

"No comment," said Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Assn. A similar reply came from John Thompson, Garvey's counterpart with the NFL Management Council, the owner's bargaining agent.

SEARCE called the meeting Thursday while owners and players exchanged harsh remarks at news conferences over who violated an apparent agreement with the mediator not to make public their positions in the dispute.

The atmosphere was made more bitter Friday when the players learned that Atlanta had traded Ken Reaves, the Falcons' player representative who set up picket lines earlier in the morning at the Greenville, S.C., training camp.

The owners, led by Wellington Mara of New York, arrived at the Labor Department shortly after the scheduled 7 a.m. PDT starting time.

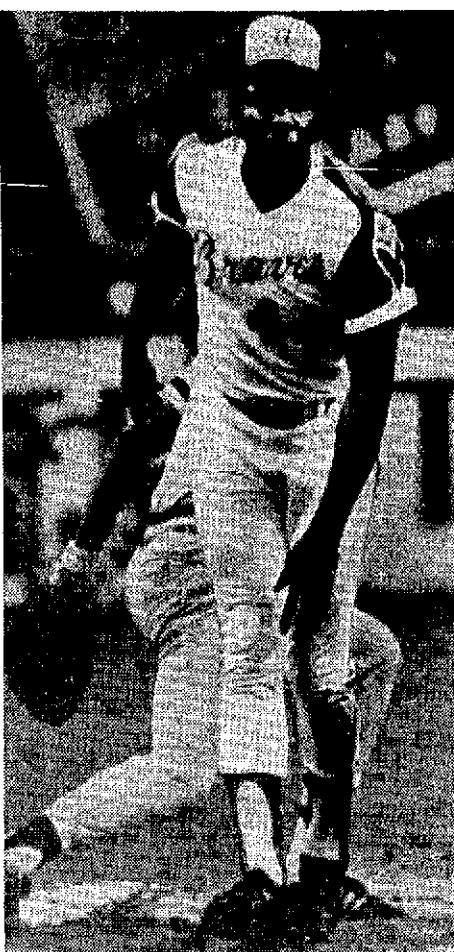

The others were George Halas Jr. of Chicago, Ralph Wilson of Buffalo, Joe Robbie of Miami, executive director Thompson and two special counsels—Jim Finks and Theodore Kheel.

About 30 minutes later, the players came—Bill Curry of Houston, Kermit Alexander of Philadelphia, Ed Podolak of Kansas City, Tom Keating of Pittsburgh, executive director Garvey and general counsel Leonard Lindquist.

About 11 a.m., Searce got both sides together in the same room. Last Friday, the negotiators spent about seven hours at the Labor Department but were across the same table only about 80 minutes. The other time was spent in separate rooms with the mediator flitting back and forth between them.

THE CRUX of the labor dispute is the so-called freedom issues in the package of 63 demands made March 21 by the NFLPA. They call for elimination of the option and reserve clauses and an end to the Rozelle compensation rule, among other things.

The players called Wednesday for round-the-clock negotiations in an effort to break the deadlock. They said, failing a negotiated agreement, they would be willing to submit all but the freedom issues to binding arbitration. The freedom issues would go to a blue ribbon commission for study and recommendation which would not be binding.

Aaron ties record

HANK TIES COBB, FETED TONIGHT

ATLANTA (UPI)—Atlanta slugger Henry Aaron started in the Braves' 2-0 loss to Pittsburgh Friday night, marking his 3,033rd appearance to tie the late Ty Cobb's record for the most games played in the major leagues.

No other player in any other professional team sport has appeared in as many games.

Aaron, who first appeared in the majors with the Braves in 1954 when the team was in Milwaukee, has said this will be his final season.

In April, he surpassed Babe Ruth's major league home run record of 714 and has a total of 725 going into tonight's game.

Tonight has been designated Henry Aaron Night, and more than 30 communities throughout the South, from Nashville to West Palm Beach, are expected to present gifts to the home run king. The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will give him a Cadillac.

Friday lefthander Ken Brett shackled the Braves on five hits and drove home Frank Taveras with a fifth-inning sacrifice fly, then got ninth-inning relief from Dave Giusti.

Brett pitched the Pirates to their sixth consecutive victory and his 12th of the season. All Atlanta's hits were singles—one by Aaron—and only in the sixth and ninth innings did a Braves' runner reach second base.

Taveras tripled leading off the fifth, a short fly ball that bounded away from Ralph Garr in right field. Brett followed with his deep fly to left.

Rau, Marshall team to silence Phillies

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

The critical need of the Dodgers at the moment is pitching.

More to the point, someone has to take up where Tommy John left off when a ruptured ligament in his pitching arm cost the Dodgers their winningest pitcher for at least a month and maybe longer.

Enter Douglas James Rau (a little fanfare music, please).

The 25-year-old left-hander, shrugging off the pressure of John's loss, not to mention the effects of a nagging stiff neck, combined with relief ace Mike Marshall to blank the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-0, Friday night at Dodger Stadium before 53,160 fans on Phase I of Helmet Weekend.

Rau, who failed to last more than three innings in his previous start because of the stiff neck, proved to be more of a pain in the neck to the Phillies.

He whirled through seven innings, allowing only two hits, before leaving in the seventh for a pinch hitter.

"If he (manager Walter Alston) wants to protect my win that way, by getting some extra runs, then fine," Rau said, not upset at missing out on a shot at his first major league shutout. Earlier this season, he combined with Marshall to blank the Montreal Expos.

"What I don't like to hear is people saying that I can't pitch more than six or seven innings," he went on. "But I know I can pitch nine innings."

"Tonight I made the pitches when I had to make them."

Alston was faced with something of a dilemma when the Dodgers had runners at second and third and no one out in the seventh.

He elected to pinch hit for Rau and, as it developed, the Dodgers picked up two more runs in the inning.

"I was concerned about Rau because he hasn't pitched that long recently," Alston said, explaining his decision. "You

Bosman's no-hit gem 'Biggest thrill of life'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Dick Bosman waited 11 years and Friday night it finally happened. The 30-year-old right-hander pitched a no-hitter.

"This has got to be the biggest thrill of my life," said Bosman, dripping with beer poured on his head by jubilant teammates. "I always knew I had it in me and tonight I finally got it."

Bosman allowed only one man to reach base in his brilliant 4-0 performance against the world champion Oakland A's and that was on his own throwing error.

With two out in the fourth inning Bosman fielded Sal Bando's slow hopper to the right of the mound but his off-balance throw glanced off the glove of first baseman Tom McCraw and rolled away, allowing Bando to go to second as Oakland's only baserunner.

"I didn't even look at the scoreboard when I made that play," Bosman said. "I really wasn't concerned at the time, but it was one of those nights that I was aware of the possibility all night."

Bosman threw only 79 pitches, 60 of which were strikes.

Bosman came into the game with a 1-0 record and a 4.54 earned-run average and had allowed 46 hits in 39 2-3 previous innings this season.

He picked up 15 of his outs on ground balls and the A's hit only seven balls to the outfield.

Shortstop Frank Duffy and third baseman Buddy Bell helped preserve the no-hitter.

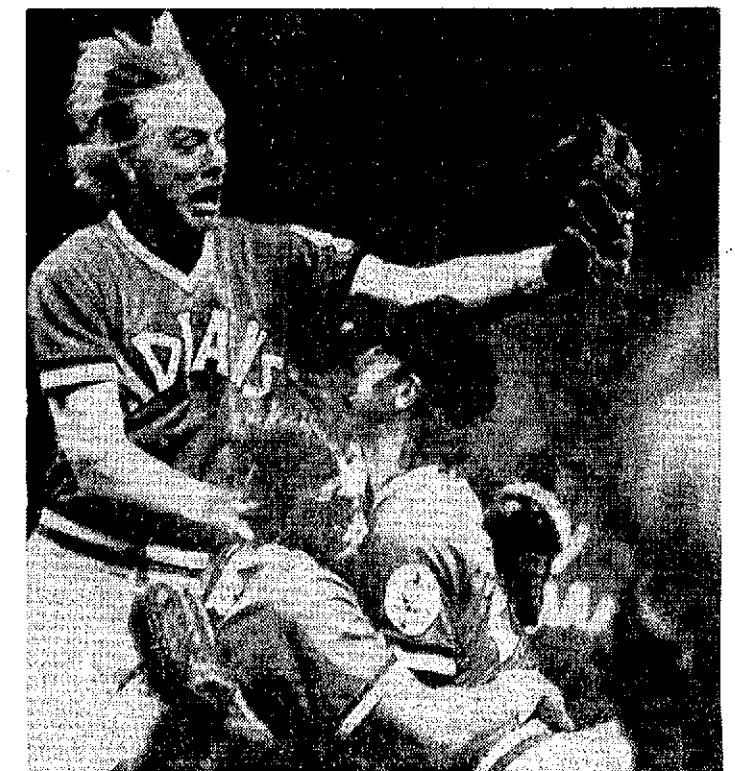

Duffy made a leaping catch of Larry Haney's liner to end the third inning — the hardest hit ball by the A's — and Bell dived to his left to snag Bert Campaneris' leadoff grounder in the seventh, then threw to first to retire the speedy shortstop.

Bosman credited catcher John Ellis with being a major contributor in the Indians' first no-hitter since Sonny Siebert pitched one against Washington in 1966.

"Johnny kept me down all night," Bosman said. "I told him before the game to get on his belly if he had to, to keep me down. He did a great job."

Bosman said there wasn't any talking on the

Angels' skipper sees better days despite defeat

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

BALTIMORE — The plusses, Dick Williams insists, are beginning to outnumber the minuses and the Angels are capable of playing .500 baseball after the All-Star break.

"That will be our objective after the break," the manager of the Angels indicated Friday in the wake of a hard-luck 5-4 defeat inflicted by the Baltimore Orioles on Don Baylor's 10th inning home run.

"I've seen some things I like in the past few days," Williams said — although Baylor's long home run to left off Skip Lockwood definitely wasn't one of them.

"Our hats have come to life, we're getting some good work out of the bullpen and our backup men, people we plateau with, are coming through."

But that does not mean there isn't room for improvement.

"I'm still looking for total execution," Williams said. "I don't want any mental mistakes, no sign-missing, no throwing to the wrong base."

"We're going to be more aggressive on the basepaths, too," he promised. "We're going to make things happen."

The bullpen has been a constant source of annoyance all season — providing migraine headaches instead of relief ... runs instead of outs.

They became known as the Arson Squad or the Kerosene Korps and their refuge was no longer known as the bullpen. It was entitled Gasoline Alley.

In the last few days, however, the relievers have responded with seldom seen efficiency.

Before Baylor's blast off Lockwood with one out in the 10th, Angel relievers had blanked the opposition for 18 successive innings.

Lockwood himself was a big contributor.

Taking over for a struggling Dick Lange in the third inning Friday night, he proceeded to blank the Birds for 6 and two-third innings, yielding just three singles before Baylor unloaded on a misplaced fastball.

That snapped a modest three-game Angel winning streak and enabled the

Winner-take-all classic favors Musket at 3-5

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Staff Writer

An event that will dot horse racing's history book for a while—a $350,000 winner-take-all confrontation between Miss Musket, filly queen of the West, and Chris Evert, the East's top sophomore femme—because it is the sport's richest such attraction to date, highlights today's Hollywood Park program.

Taking second billing is a fair country affair in itself, the $132,050 Hollywood Juvenile Championship featuring the 12 best 2-year-olds in the West.

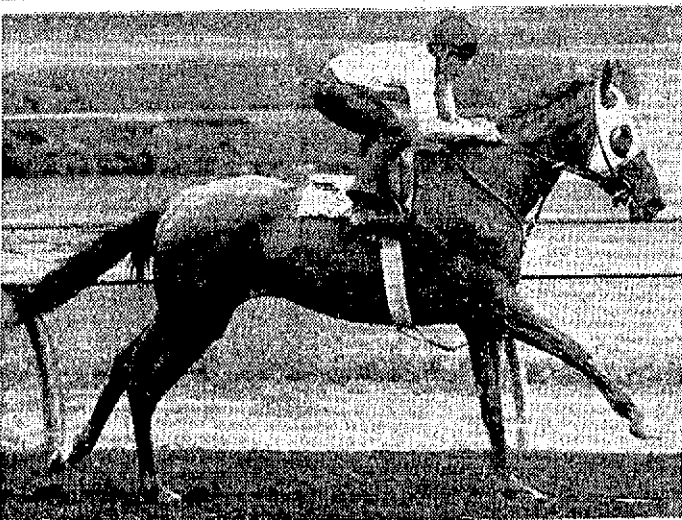

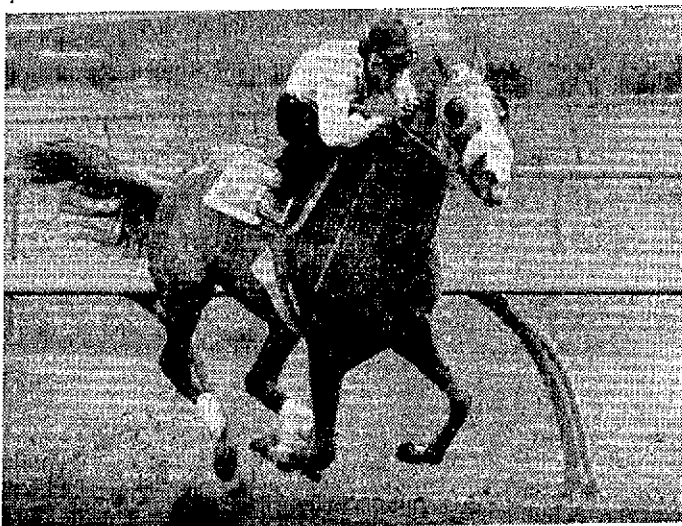

Carl Rosen, owner of Chris Evert, and Aaron U. Jones, who races Miss Musket, each put up $100,000 in the form of an entry fee, and Hollywood Park has added another $150,000 to the mile and one-quarter classic.

The "Hollywood Special," as the race has been officially called, tops the $250,000 event the Inglewood track staged two years ago when Convenience held off Type-cast by a head in the battle of stakes-class older mares.

Even though Chris Evert swept the prestigious Triple Crown for fillies in New York, Miss Musket is expected to enjoy favoritism today on the basis of a sizzling mile workout eight days ago.

Cubs handcuffed by Cincy, 4-1

CINCINNATI (AP)—George Foster's bases-loaded single drove in two runs and Jack Billingham beat Chicago for the fourth time this season as Cincinnati downed the Cubs, 4-1, Friday night.

The Cubs tapped Billingham for a run in the top of the fourth, only to see the Reds score three times in their half of the inning and knock out Dave LaRoche (1-3).

Joe Morgan led off Cincinnati's fourth with a walk and stole second for his 40th stolen base of the season. John Bench hit a bad-hop single over third baseman Bill Madlock's head and moved to second as the throw came to the plate.

One out later, Dave Concepcion was walked to load the bases and set the stage for Foster's single into leftfield. Morgan and Bench scored on the hit, one of the five allowed by five Chicago pitchers.

Cincinnati added a run in the inning on Bill Plummer's sacrifice fly after Concepcion had stolen third.

Chicago got to Billingham for their run on Steve Swisher's two-out single through the box to score Madlock.

San Francisco (AP)—Gary Matthews belted a pair of two-run singles while Mike Caldwell and Randy Moffitt combined for a six-hitter, leading San Francisco to a 6-2 victory over Montreal Friday night.

The Giants took a 1-0 lead with an unearned run off Mike Torrez (9-6) in the first inning. Mike Phillips walked and Chris Speier reached second when centerfielder Willie Davis dropped his long drive. Garry Maddox's grounder scored Phillips.

Walks to Speier and Bobby Bonds around Maddox' bunt single loaded the bases with two down in the third, preceding Matthews' first two-run single.

Maddox singled with one out in the fifth, stole second and went to third on catcher Barry Foote's throwing error. Bonds walked and stole second and Matthews delivered his second two-run single, boosting his club lead to 47 runs batted in.

Moffitt singled home the Giants' sixth run in the eighth after Matthews hit his third single and moved to second on a sacrifice by Thomason.

Roger Metzger touched off the Houston first with a one-out single, went to third on Cesar Cedeno's double and scored on Bob Watson's grounder. May then hammered a 1-2 pitch 400 feet over the fence in left-center.

The Astros added two more runs in the eighth on consecutive one-out singles by Metzger, Cedeno, Watson and May.

Griffin (11-3) was nipped for the St. Louis run in the fourth on Ken Reitz' lead-off single and a two-out triple by Joe Torre. Jerry DaVanon followed with a looping line drive to left-center that appeared headed for extra bases until centerfielder Cedeno made a lunging backhand catch on the dead run.

This close to perfection

Oakland managed to get only one runner on base against Cleveland's Dick Bosman Friday and it came on this fourth-inning play when Indian first baseman Tom McCraw couldn't quite get to Bosman's throw after he had fielded slow roller by Sal Bando.

ANGELS—

lattering Orioles to win for only the second time in eight games.

At the outset, it looked like an easy Baltimore romp.

They scored twice in the first inning on Al Bumbry's double, a pair of walks, Tommy Davis' sacrifice fly and Baylor's run-scoring single.

After Denny Doyle shocked himself and the world with his first homer of the season in the third, the Birds came right back with another pair.

After Bobby Grich was hit by a pitch and Boog Powell walked, Brooks Robinson and Earl Williams produced run-scoring hits for a 4-1 Oriole lead.

The Angels battled back with two in the sixth as Orlando Ramirez singled and Lee Stanton and Frank Robinson boomed back-to-back doubles.

They drew even in the seventh on Bob Oliver's single, a walk to Elie Rodriguez and a pair of ground outs, the last one by pinch-hitter Paul Schaaf which got the tying run home.

But Baltimore reliever Don Hood retired the last 10 men he faced and waited around for something to happen.

It did when Baylor came to bat in the 10th.

ANGEL ANGLES: Rumors intensified Friday that slugger FRANK ROBINSON would be dealt to the Boston Red Sox. Robbie, who just announced this week that he would return for another season in 1975, earlier turned down his transfer to the New York Yankees but he has indicated he would approve a deal with the Red Sox.

It is likely that the Angels would accept merely cash for Robinson but will hold out for a young player—some one like outfielder DWIGHT EVANS. DAVE CHALK said he was "thrilled and surprised" at his appointment to the A.L. All-Star team. He is the first rookie to make it since the Bird's BOBBY GRICH in 1971.

Robinson was selected for the 12th time in his 19-year career. BRUCE BOGGETT, who joined the Angels Friday night, was one of three Angel hands leading their respective leagues in hitting. Boggett amassed a .355 average in 93 games. DAVE COLLINS is batting .402 at El Paso with a 24-game hitting streak and BILLY TAYLOR is .528 at Idaho Falls. Pitcher MARK WULFMEYER has been sent home from Idaho Falls with a torn tendon in his right forearm.

Mets erupt for 4-2 win over Pads

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Jerry Grote's two-out, two-run, bases-loaded single capped a four-run rally in the sixth inning Friday night that gave the New York Mets a 4-2 victory over San Diego behind Jon Matlack's five-hit pitching effort.

The win was Matlack's ninth against six losses and marked his fourth victory in his last five starts.

Rookie Dan Spillner, trying for his sixth win in 10 decisions, was the loser, a two-out error in the sixth inning by second baseman Horace Clarke setting the stage for the Mets' four-run burst.

Clarence Gaston's fourth-inning home run, his sixth of the year, had given the Padres a 1-0 lead as the Mets came to bat in the sixth.

'You've been traded, Ken'

Player rep Reaves dealt off picket line

ATLANTA (AP)—"This is why they're striking," said Jo Ann Reaves Friday after learning that her husband, Ken Reaves of the Atlanta Falcons, had been traded to the New Orleans Saints in a four-player National Football League swap.

Reaves, the Falcons' representative to the NFL Players' Assn. which struck July 1, led 10 veteran Atlanta players in setting up a picket line Friday morning at the team's training camp at Greenville, S.C. Shortly afterwards, he was informed he had been traded with guard Andy Maurer to the Saints for linebacker Dick Palmer and guard Royce Smith.

"What the players are asking for is right and just," said Mrs. Reaves, a secretary at an Atlanta motel, "especially in this day and time. This is not a players' strike; it's a strike for the players' families."

The Reaves, who just bought a house at Fairburn, Ga., have no children.

"But if we did," said Mrs. Reaves, "we would just have to pull up stakes and leave. The players are treated just like cattle."

She complained that the average fan doesn't understand the issues involved in the players' strike.

"If my husband collects one of his pension checks after he retires and then dies, his pension is shut off and goes back into the general pension funds. There are no benefits for the kids of deceased players," said Mrs. Reaves.

The trade brought immediate criticism from Ed Garvey, NFLPA executive director.

"Reaves was traded because of his labor activities as the player representative," Garvey said. "He stood up to Falcon coach Norm Van Brocklin, so he had to go. It's outrageous."

Van Brocklin admitted, "the timed looks bad. It looks like a hatchet job. But I assure you it is not intended that way and is totally unrelated to the labor movement. It has been in the works for several months."

Reaves and linebacker Tommy Nobis were the only remaining members of the Falcons first team (1966).

Reaves had no immediate comment about the trade, but said he would have a press conference later "when I get my thoughts together."

Sports world bids final farewell to Diz today

By JERRY ESTILL, Associated Press Writer
WIGGINS, Miss. (AP) — "We just took him for granted because we loved him, I guess," said a waitress at a truck stop in this sleepy little Mississippi town paying its formal respects to baseball immortal Dizzy Dean.

Christine Henze, the waitress, was unable to join the line to pay respects to Dean's family at the local funeral home because she was working. But scores of others, including tourists passing by, filed through the chapel.

Flowers from all parts of the nation filled the chapel.

Most of the people passing Dean's open casket Friday were from Wiggins, the town of about 3,000 which Dean adopted as his home.

Dean died Wednesday, in a hospital at Reno, Nev., after a heart attack.

"I don't think the people around here are going to realize what they had in old Diz for a year or so," said Dan E. Vernon, a highway patrolman who lives in Wiggins.

"Any time you would get out of town and people found out you were from Wiggins, they would grab you and say, 'Do you know Dizzy Dean?' But around here he was just Dizzy. Our children grew up knowing him."

Vernon said he has three sons with whom Dean had shared his baseball knowledge. After Dean's death they dug out photographs of him giving them Little League awards and placed them on the mantle.

There were others, like Mr. and Mrs. Dick Neilson of Albert Lea, Minn., who were driving past Wiggins when they heard on the radio that Dean had returned home. They were reluctant, dressed as they were in shorts, to enter the somber funeral home, but the funeral director insisted that they come in "because that's the kind of person Dean was."

Country comedian Jerry Clower, a fellow Mississippian with a down-home sense of humor similar to Dean's, was in Wiggins to pay his respects. Clower said he and Dean often crossed paths in airports during their extensive travels.

"But Dizzy was the one that was Mississippi's ambassador of good will," Clower said. "Everytime I met somebody who learned I was from Yazoo City, they would ask how far that was from Wiggins and did I know Dizzy."

Barber vs. Barber in SoCal tourney

Highlight of today's quarter-final round of the Southern California Section PGA 50th anniversary tournament will be a match between Jerry Barber, former national PGA champion, and his son Tom.

It will be the first time father and son have faced each other in PGA competition. Two years ago each man lost his match one down to fall a round short of the inevitable confrontation. Friday each won one up.

Barber and Barber tee off at 7:40 a.m. at Mission Viejo Country Club, site of the section's golden anniversary tournament.

Other qualifiers for the quarter-final round were Dennie Meyer (Quail Lake), Paul McGuire (San Gabriel), Ron O'Connor (Desert Aire), Rick Divil and Paul Seodeller both of (El Niguel) and Fred Crockett (Indio).

All three medalists were knocked out of competition during the first round of match play Friday.

Eddie Merrins of Bel Air was upset by Art Henderson of Mission Viejo, 1-up.

Gerald Preuss of Alisal, who carded a three-under-par 69 Wednesday, was eliminated by Jerry Barber, 2-1.

Perhaps the greatest upset in the first round of match play came when O'Connor bested two-time tournament champion Jimmy Powell one up.

Powell had carded a five-under-par 67 Thursday to equal a five-year-old course record for competition play at the 6,685-yard course, often dubbed "Mission Impossible."

Three ladies kpotted

Mann, Massey, Ahern beat heat

LA GRANGE, Ill. (AP) —Former champion Carol Mann and Curtis Cupper Debby Massey, both playing steady golf under a broiling sun, moved into a first-place tie with collapsing Kathy Ahern after the second round of the U.S. Women's Open golf tournament Friday.

Miss Mann, the 1965 Open champ and one of the early finishers in the bulky field of 108 pros and 41 amateurs who struggled over the La Grange CC course, was one of a handful to match par 72. Miss Massey's 73 also gave her a 36-hole total of even-par 144.

Miss Ahern, who opened Thursday with a record-matching, first-round four-under-par 68, managed to hang on at 144 with a faltering 76 as she ran into all kinds of trouble on a windy, 95-degree day.

In blowing her three-stroke lead, Miss Ahern three-putted three greens, including the parfour 16th which she double-bogeyed after hooking her drive behind some trees.

"I didn't putt that badly, the ball just didn't go in the hole," said Miss Ahern.

The heat and the tricky greens took their toll for the second consecutive day, with the field well spaced out behind the triple leaders. The cutoff for today's third round came at 155 for the top 50 finishers and ties.

Marlene Hagge made the cut at 153, as did Laura Baugh. Laura slipped to a 79 Friday for a 155 total, a single stroke above the cutoff point. Amateur Amy Alcott was among the many casualties, skyting to an 82 after an opening 77.

Pooley birdies final hole, nets Goodyear title

LITCHFIELD PARK, Ariz. (AP)—Don Pooley of Riverside sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole Friday to win the $31,700 Goodyear Classic golf tournament.

Pooley shot a 73 to finish at two-under-par 286. Jim Barker of San Antonio was second, one stroke back, with Greg Edwards, Fresno, at 289.

Five golfers tied for fourth at 291—Ken Ellsworth, Manhattan Beach; John Beetham, Yorba Linda; Hal Underwood, Humbolt, Tex.; Fred Hancy, Forest Grove, Ore., and Jim Petralia, San Gabriel.

The tournament was played on the 7,220-yard, par-72 Goodyear Country Club course. It was the final match in a series of four sponsored by the National Golfers of America.

Sifford licks wind, holds 1-shot bulge

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) —Curtis Sifford shouldered his way out of a bulging logjam of players with a four-under-par 67 and established a one-stroke lead Friday after the second round of the $150,000 R.C. Open golf tournament.

Sifford, a non-winning nephew of old pro Charles Sifford, put together a two-round total of 135, seven under par, on the wind-swept 6,804-yard En-Joie Golf Club course.

Don Iverson, Bruce Fleisher, rookie Mark Hayes and Tim Collins were one stroke back at 136. Iverson, Fleisher and Hayes all shared the 18-hole lead and all had 70s in the second round. Collins, a sophomore struggler who has made the cut for the final two rounds only twice before, had a 67.

Australian Bruce Crampton scored the day's best round, a 66, and joined four others at 137, two shots out of the lead. He was tied with Lee Elder, Forrest Fezler, Richie Karl and Mike Wynn. Karl had a 67, Wynn a 69, Elder a 70 and Fezler a 71.

Of those 11 leaders, only Crampton and Elder have ever won regular tour titles. The rest rank among the relative unknowns.

Jacklin (135) leads Malmo tourney
MALMO, Sweden (UPI) —Tony Jacklin of England shot a brilliant second round course-record 65 Friday to extend his lead to five strokes with a nine-under-par 135 in the $68,000 Scandinavian Enterprise Open golf championship.

Scotland's Sam Torrance was second after shooting a 68 for 140 on the 6,897-yard course.

Will Czech signing nix Soviet series?

TORONTO (UPI) — The eight-game hockey series between Team Canada '74 and the Soviet Union could be jeopardized by the Toronto Toros' signing of Czechoslovakian star Vaclav Nedomansky, published reports indicated Friday.

Team Canada '74 is actually a World Hockey Assn. all-star team. Its coach is Toros' coach Billy Harris and several of its players will likely be Toros players.

International Ice Hockey Federation president J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, not pleased that one of international hockey's superstars is going to the pros, said the IIHF will not sanction the series unless the WHA signs an agreement with European hockey federations.

If the Soviet team took part in the series without IIHF permission, it could be expelled from international hockey.

The National Hockey League has signed an agreement with European federations, which is probably why Nedomansky did not sign with an NHL club.

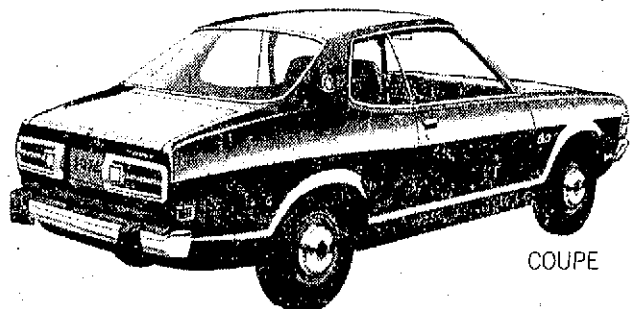

Speaking from London, Ahearne said, "the IIHF met last week and decided that if the WHA doesn't sign that agreement by Aug. 15, then the series is off."

Lukas enters trio tonight at Alamitos; Kaweah runs

For the fifth time this season, leading trainer D. Wayne Lukas, the Charlie Whittingham of the quarter-horse world, will send out half of the field tonight at Los Alamitos when a trio of his fleet stable matches strides in the 15th running of the $10,000 Hard Twist.

The Lukas threesome includes two-time July stakes winner Flight 109,

LAFFIT PINCAY Rides Miss Musket

JORGE VELASQUEZ Astride Chris Evert

RACE—

because "I was trying to slow her down all the way ... I never had a workout like that before."

When Chris Evert breezed a mile in 1:38.2 two days later, those with calculators figured the drills favored Miss Musket by 16 lengths. But jockey Jorge Velasquez cautioned that the work was better than the final time indicated "since Chris Evert took the track at a time when it was relatively dead and still moist."

Chris Evert, named for the tennis queen who will be in the stands today with her fiancé Jimmy Connors, has seven wins in nine outings. Miss Musket is 7-for-8.

Miss Musket likes to run on or near the lead while Chris Evert seems to do her best from off the pace. Experts are conceding Miss Musket a relatively early easy lead, and those who choose the Western filly say she'll never look back.

Those who opt for the New York invader believe Chris Evert will blow by her rival in the stretch drive, although it's fact that most two-horse races are won by the pace-setter.

The morning line will have Miss Musket a 3-5 favorite with Chris Evert a 4-5 choice. When Typecast and Convenience clashed two years ago, the program listed Typecast at 1-2 and Convenience even money.

Interestingly, both jockeys are 27-year-old Panamanians born one day apart in Panama City. Jorge is the elder.

Heading the $132,050 Juvenile will be stakes winners George Navonod, The Bagel Prince and Bold Gun. Bill Shoemaker will climb aboard Bold Gun, a Florida-bred who arrived at Hollypark Wednesday from the East Coast.

Pincay will handle Dimaggio, with Velasquez astride Little Big Bad. Filled with class youngsters, the Juvenile also will spotlight Matchless Deeds and Diablo, both 1-for-1 and who knows how good.

Pincay lucky to escape spill

On the eve of the most important ride of his life, jockey Laffit Pincay had an afternoon at Hollywood Park he won't soon forget.

While he won three races on the card for the 16th time this season, it was a race in which he finished last that Pincay will remember for some time to come.

Pincay was aboard Money Tolose in the seventh race Friday and miraculously escaped a fall when his mount charged head-on into Fraulein Fleet.

the others in the lineup will be hoping for a Hard Twist victory, possibly earning them an invitation to the Go Man Go Handicap.

Flight 109, winner of three 350-yard dashes here last summer, has been the hottest horse in the record-setting Lukas stable with two stakes triumphs already to his credit this month. Terry Liphum will do the riding on Flight 109.

Twelve Five went off as the odds-on favorite along with his stablemate Five Chics in the $92,700 Maturity but after taking the lead shortly after the start faltered near the wire, giving way to both Elan Again and Don Guerro.

Kaweah Bar will be out once again to crack his 20-race losing streak tonight in the fifth race but he has attracted seven tough sprinters for the 440-yard event.

The palomino express has four seconds and one third in five races this summer but trainer Larry Kleve has found a spot for the 8-year-old gelding at
